Birth Announcements

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Eckenrode, Taneytown, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital this morning.

A son was born at the hospital Sunday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kenworthy, Taneytown.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Lambert, also of Taneytown, Sunday afternoon at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roth, Chambersburg street, announce the birth of a son at the hospital Sunday morning.

Price Rules To Be Explained

Charles W. Wood, field representative of the Office of Price Administration, will address a public meeting in the fire engine house this evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Wood will explain and interpret the general maximum price regulation that is now in effect.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce. All retail dealers in this area are invited to attend.

LESS THAN $500 NEEDED BY R.C. TO REACH QUOTA

The Red Cross war relief fund entered the "home stretch" of its six-month drive for $13,000 when the balance in the fund came within less than $500 of the goal.

Week-end donations brought the fund up to $12,504.28 and left only $495.72 to be raised.

The most recent donations came from Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sponseller who gave $10 and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lory who contributed $2.

Chapter officials renewed today their appeals for funds from individuals, organizations and industries who have not yet contributed to the war fund or for sums in addition to earlier gifts so that the Adams county chapter may meet the quota set for it in December of last year.

Many individuals and a number of organizations already have contributed two or more times to the fund and others are invited to increase their original donations so that the Adams county chapter may be listed on national rolls as having "done its bit" in the nationwide effort to meet emergency duties thrust upon the Red Cross in war time.

NAWAKWA OPENS WITH 204 BOYS

Camp Nawakwa, Lutheran training school camp near Brysonia, began its fourteenth season today with a capacity enrollment of 204 boys of the junior and intermediate groups. The boys will be in camp for one week.

The faculty for the camp follows: Junior, Mrs. Cecil Alexander, director; Stanley Newcomer and the Rev. Dr. J. Harold Munster, and Intermediate, the Rev. Russell Auman, Thomas Knepp and Miss Mary Laird.

Cabin counselors from Gettysburg include Herbert and Harvey Smith, and the Rev. Robert Raul.

Among the campers from the Frederick: Diehl, Ostranna; Gene Kanagy, Stuart Klinefelter, Howard Fox, Jack Reen, Charles and Frederick Rodgers, all of Gettysburg; John and Richard Mehling, Littlestown; Wilbur, Miller, New Oxford, and Henry Harshar, Cashtown.

It has been announced that two additional camps are filled to capacity. The junior and intermediate girls camp from June 29 to July 6 and the second intermediate girls' camp from July 6 to July 13 now have capacity enrollments.

Sale Of Bonds And Stamps Totals $884 At Theatres

A total of $287.25 in war bonds and stamps was sold at the Warner Brothers' Majestic theatre booth from June 16 to June 20, inclusive, it was announced today by Sydney Poppay, theatre manager. The total received at the Majestic and Strand theatres for the three-week period is now $884.45.

Local women who assisted in the sale during last week were Mrs. A. B. Wentz, Mrs. Paul A. Kinsey, Miss Julia Peters, Mrs. Elizabeth Hennig, Mrs. Guyon Buehler, Miss Esther Tipton, Mrs. Tillie O'Connor, Mrs. John Hamilton, Mrs. Morris Gidlin, Mrs. Edwin Ross, Mrs. Robert Deardorff, Mrs. Victor Chamberlain, Miss Helen Chamberlain, Miss Rose Stock, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. John Maguire and Mrs. Dora Beall.

Property Transfers

Ruth Hyde Rathoff and Lyle W. Rathoff, Wichita, Kansas, sold to Helen McCarthy Hyde and John M. Hyde, New Castle, Delaware, five tracts in Hamiltonian township containing a total of 48 acres.

Alvin B. Reed, Latimore township, sold to Graydon A. Weigle, York Springs, a 43-acre property in Latimore township.

The Rev. B. P. Lightner, East Middle street, quietly observed his eighty-third birthday anniversary Sunday.

COURT REFUSES NEW HEARING IN RELIEF CASE

The Adams county court on Saturday refused a petition for a re-hearing of an action brought by the State Department of Public Assistance against a Littlestown resident against whom a support order was handed down by the court on June 8 after the initial hearing.

In his petition presented on Saturday by John P. Butt, Esq., Walter Shryock described as "excessive" the $22.60 monthly payments the court ordered him on June 8 to pay toward the support of his mother, Mrs. Lillie Shryock, Germany township. Shryock claims it is "beyond his ability" to pay that amount each month and submitted a list of his annual expenses that leaves a balance of $1828 over his annual income.

In refusing the petition for a re-opening of the case, Judge W. C. Sheely pointed out the court already had heard testimony in the case and had examined the financial ability of Shryock to support his mother. Other children of Mrs. Shryock were named in the action by the Public Assistance department but the support order was directed only to Walter Shryock.

The court on Saturday placed H. Keith Sanders, Gettysburg, on parole for two years. The parole was granted a week before the expiration of the minimum sentence of nine months imposed last fall for burglary and larceny.

Five Gettysburg troops of the Boy Scouts will take part in the town-wide collection of scrap metal and rubber on Tuesday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock and scheduled to be completed by 5 p. m.

Four trucks, one operating in each of four sectors of the town, will begin to cruise town streets at 1 o'clock in the quest for all types of scrap metals and rubber. Seven or eight Boy Scouts, members of Troops 77, 78, 79 and 80, will man each truck and will conduct the house-to-house campaign.

Arendtsville Boy Scouts will conduct their salvage campaign in their town on Wednesday evening. Fairfield is planning a similar campaign. Biglerville and Littlestown scouts already have staged their drives.

HANNAH NEELY IS LAWYER'S BRIDE

Miss Hannah Grace Neely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Neely, of Fairfield, was married to Daniel Edmund Teeter, Esq., son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Teeter, of Taneytown, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church. The Rev. Harry S. Eckert performed the single ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with white spring flowers, ferns and candles. Mark K. Eckert of Gettysburg, presided at the organ, playing the wedding marches from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had her sister, Miss Helen Neely, for her maid of honor. Mrs. Mark A. Eckert, Mrs. Robert A. Wills, and the Misses Jane and Agnes Neely, all sisters of the bride, were her bridesmaids. Little Miss Dona Barley, of Bethesda, Maryland, was the flower girl.

Richard R. Teeter, of Taneytown, was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mark A. Eckert, Richard H. Eckert, of Gettysburg; John D. Teeter, of Taneytown; and Robert A. Wills, of Fairfield.

The bride was attired in a gown of white celanese made with a sweetheart neck. Her tulle veil was fastened with white stephanotis. Her bouquet was made of a white orchid surrounded with roses and (Please Turn to Page 2)

DOCTORS TO MEET

At the request of Dr. C. G. Crist, chief of staff of the Warner hospital, all doctors attached to borough defense organizations throughout the county will meet Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at the Nurses' home at the Warner hospital to organize a hospital defense unit. Judge W. C. Sheely, chairman of the county council of defense, will attend the meeting.

Libyan Disaster Thwarts Hopes For Second Front This Year; Whole War Prolonged; Allies To Revise Plans

Half-Hour Blackout Part Of All-Night Dim-Out Tuesday

DIM-OUT: From 8:30 p. m. (Tuesday) to 5 a. m. (Wednesday) pedestrian and automobile traffic will proceed normally, and street lights will be on, but other exterior lighting must be off and interior lighting must be screened from outside view.

BLACKOUT: For one-half hour during the night all exterior lighting will be extinguished. This half-hour will be announced by the usual siren alarm for a blackout. No pedestrian or automobile traffic will be permitted to move during the blackout. Only emergency vehicles will be allowed to proceed. The time of the half-hour blackout will be given local defense officials in sealed instructions.

PURPOSE: To teach by actual practice how to keep essential lights burning inside but with windows screened so that the reflection will not show outside to guide the enemy. The state council of defense has warned that during real air raids, blackouts may be continuous for many days and people must go on living and working.

SUGGESTION: Both the state and Adams county councils of defense have advocated the blacking out of one room in which the family may gather and from which light has been obscured through the use of black paint over windows and transoms, adhesive coverings, shades, screens or shutters.

COUNTIES: On Tuesday the dusk-to-dawn test will be held in the following counties: Bradford, Susquehanna, Sullivan, Wyoming, Lackawanna, Wayne, Pike, Union, Snyder, Northumberland, Monroe, Columbia, Luzerne, Monroe, Carbon, Schuylkill, Northampton, Lehigh, Perry, Cumberland, Adams, Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, Bucks, Montgomery, York, Lancaster, Chester, Delaware and Philadelphia. The tests will be held in 20 central counties on Wednesday and in 16 counties in western Pennsylvania on Thursday.

HEAVY FIGHTING AT SEVASTOPOL

Moscow, June 22 (AP)—Sevastopol defenders dropped back from the north and south fortresses guarding the Crimean naval base today before enormous German pressure, exerted ceaselessly despite the heavy casualties, estimated at 100,000, which Axis forces have suffered in less than three weeks. A fresh Nazi wedge was forced in the fortifications to the north where the enemy massed a huge force of infantry, artillery and tanks, press accounts said.

(The German high command declared that the entire region north of Sevastopol's defenses had been cleared of the defenders with the capture of the last coastal fort. "Destruction of enemy forces still resisting at the utmost tip of the isthmus is in progress," it continued. "On the rest of the investing front German and Rumanian troops, supported by the Luftwaffe, have assaulted and captured several forts and strongly defended heights."

(German planes shot down 28 Russian planes over Sevastopol and the Donets front yesterday, the communiqué declared.)

Brother Of Capt. Long Missing In Philippines

Mrs. Ira M. Long, of Erie, has received word from the War Department that her son, Capt. Charles Henry Long, who was stationed in the Philippines, is listed as missing. The missing captain is a brother of Capt. L. S. Long, Seminary avenue, who is stationed at Camp Peckett, Virginia.

Ray Rupp Closes Laundry; 22 Years In Business Here

C. Ray Rupp, owner of the Gettysburg Steam Laundry, announced today that his place of business will close Saturday, June 27.

Mr. Rupp stated that he is forced to make this decision due to conditions beyond his control. He has conducted this business on Steinwehr avenue for the last 22 years.

Midway Victory Balked Invasion Try On West Coast

With the Pacific Fleet, June 22 (AP)—The vast size of the Japanese armada routed in the battle of Midway seems convincing proof that it was pointed for an invasion of America's west coast.

An unofficial but reliable tabulation of the enemy's strength indicates Midway island was regarded as only the smallest goal in a grander scheme of conquest. The tiny defense outpost is less than 1,200 miles from Pearl Harbor and around 3,000 miles from America's west coast—not far to the reach of modern war.

The unprecedentedly large, long-ranged invasion force, strung out for hundreds of miles as it steamed toward the little Hawaiian island, included four battleships, five aircraft carriers, eight cruisers, and undetermined numbers of destroyers. (Please Turn to Page 6)

Japs Establish Base At Kiska, 585 Mi. From Dutch Harbor; Unidentified Craft Attack Oregon Coast, Vancouver Island

(By The Associated Press)
Submarine shelling of lonely Vancouver Island in Canada's British Columbia and gunfire upon the Oregon coast from an unidentified craft lurking offshore today brought war to the doorsteps of the Pacific northwest.

The two attacks, at points separated by several hundred miles, came almost 24 hours apart. Official reports indicated that no casualties and little damage were suffered at either spot.

The first target was a dominion government radio station at Estevan Point, on the western coast of Vancouver island. The shelling there began at 10:35 p. m. (Pacific War Time) Saturday and continued for a half-hour.

"The shells landed on the beach or on the rocks well beyond the building," said Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, commander-in-chief of Canadian west coast defenses. "A few windows in the radio office were broken by the concussion." The submarine was not seen from the shore.

Nine Shells Land

Then, at 11:30 o'clock last night, residents from Seaside on the Ocean to Astoria on the Columbia river, at the northwest tip of Oregon, were awakened by the sound of gunfire and the whine of speeding missiles.

"Six to nine shells landed in the area north of Seaside," the Army said in a communique from western defense headquarters at San Francisco, "apparently from an unidentified craft off shore. Firing lasted 15 minutes. No damage or casualties reported."

Eyewitnesses agreed with the Army that the firing had been of no effect, but many felt certain they had heard more than nine shots.

One was Robert Lucas, associate editor of the Astoria Budget. Awakened by the sound, he said, "I hurried upstairs to have a look (Please Turn to Page 6)

Next Few Weeks May Decide If Nazis Get Middle-East Oil

(By The Associated Press)

The white flag that fluttered out Sunday morning over Tobruk's shattered barricades as a final, mute concession that a superior Axis force had reconquered Libya marks a major turn in the stratagems of war on two continents, if not in the whole world. So extended and intertwined are causes and effects of this capitulation that military experts were hard-pressed to trace them all but it was obvious that the Axis triumph was forcing a drastic reshaping, if not postponement or abandonment, of some plans of the United Nations.

BULLETINS

Cairo, Egypt, June 22 (AP)—The RAF announced today that British torpedo bombers scored hits on two large freighters and one escort vessel in an attack on an Axis Mediterranean convoy yesterday.

Cairo, Egypt, June 22 (AP)—Driving forward without a pause from their capture of Tobruk, Nazi mobile columns have clashed with British forces only a few miles from the Egyptian border, the British reported today, as the Allied position in the entire Middle East appeared threatened by the disastrous rout in Libya. The British command said the clash occurred 12 miles northwest of Port Capuzzo, which is just across the border in Libya.

Chungking, June 22 (AP)—The high command indicated today that the Japanese had been held to virtually no gains in six days of fighting for the 50-mile central section of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway which remains in Chinese hands.

Allied Headquarters, Australia, June 22 (AP)—A high Dutch Army officer who is the leader of guerrillas carrying on the fight against the Japanese in the Netherlands East Indies made a secret visit to Australia and then returned to his command, a special Netherlands East Indies communique said today. The announcement quoted the officer as reporting that guerrilla warfare (Please Turn to Page 2)

Allies Face Crisis

By DREW MIDDLETON

London, June 22 (AP)—A military disaster in Libya of such magnitude that it may have blighted the Allies' hopes for a second front in Europe this year and prolonged the whole war was acknowledged by the British today with undisguised anxiety.

All sources agreed that the Allies were faced with a crisis. The next few weeks, they said, will decide whether Germany can be beaten in 1942 or 1943 or will be able to fight on for years using the oil of the Middle East and the tin and rubber of the Far East.

It was expected that Prime Minister Churchill will face an aroused House of Commons when he returns from the United States, and some political observers said many members of Parliament were angered by what they called the "rosy picture" painted by the Prime Minister after the first clashes in the current campaign.

Decisive Battle in 60 Days
A military commentator in London, however, said that Axis claims to at least 25,000 prisoners taken at Tobruk were "exaggerated." It was believed little shipping was caught in the harbor.

The general view was that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's Eighth Army faced a decisive battle within 60 days, with Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel having his greatest advantage in his preponderance of armored formations.

The British line along the frontier is of slight use, some commentators believed, so long as the Axis has tanks to flank it through the oases of Siwa and Giarabub, and the reinforcement of Rommel by a (Please Turn to Page 2)

Washington, June 22—Under cover of fog and thick weather, Japanese landing forces have inched along the Aleutian island chain toward Alaska and now are establishing themselves at Kiska, which is only 585 miles from the United States Navy base at Dutch Harbor.

This was disclosed in a communique yesterday that told of the bombing of "a small force" of enemy ships in Kiska harbor. Army fliers reported hitting one cruiser and sinking a transport.

At the same time it was announced in Ottawa that an enemy submarine, presumably Japanese, had shelled the dominion government radio station at Estevan Point, Vancouver island, Saturday night. The submarine pumped shells at the station for about half an hour but failed to do any damage.

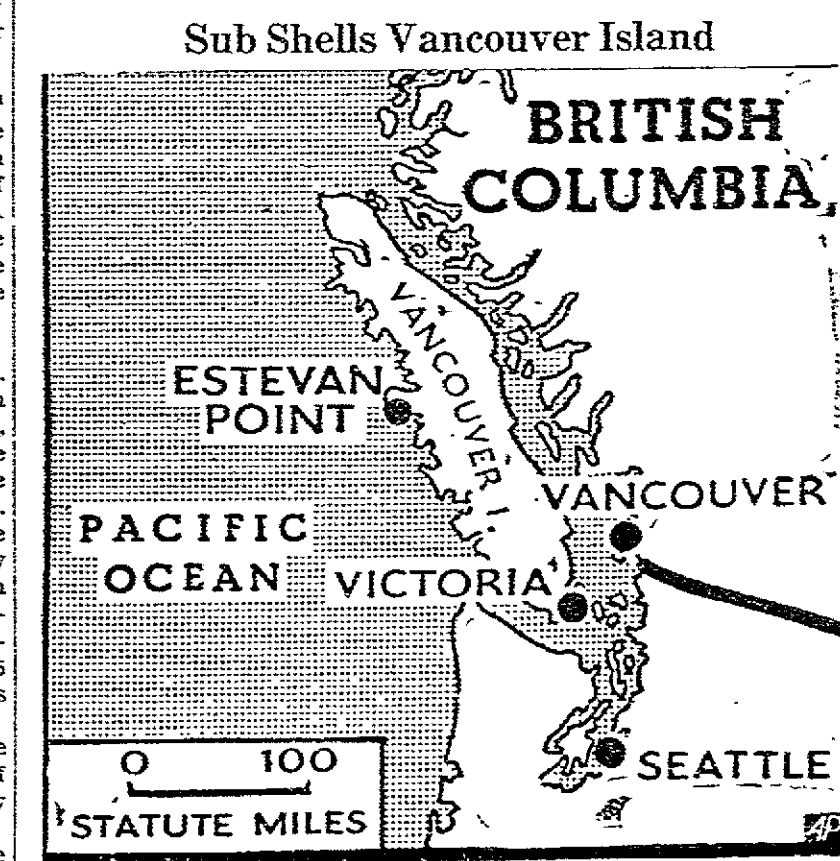

While the number of ships actually in Kiska harbor may have been small, observers pointed out that presence of a cruiser might indicate that a force of destroyers and auxiliaries was somewhere in the vicinity.

The communique said operations in the Aleutians "continued to be restricted by considerations of weather and great distances."

"Within the last few days, however," it added, "the weather was sufficiently clear at times to permit some restricted air operations against Kiska where tents and minor temporary structures were observed to have been set up on land."

The Navy reported on June 12 that a small enemy force had landed at Attu, a barren, rocky islet marking the westernmost tip of the Aleutian chain. At that time the presence of enemy ships at Kiska was noted, but they were reported shortly afterward to have been driven away.

Kiska, formerly used as a Navy coaling station, is about 275 miles east of Attu. About 20 miles long, it is sparsely inhabited by Indians and a few white traders.

A Canadian government telegraph station at Estevan Point on Vancouver Island was shelled by a submarine, Ottawa reported. "No damage resulted," said the report.

COURT REFUSES
NEW HEARING
IN RELIEF CASE

The Adams county court on Saturday refused a petition for a re-hearing of an action brought by the State Department of Public Assistance against a Littlestown resident against whom a support order was handed down by the court on June 8 after the initial hearing.

In his petition presented on Saturday by John P. Butt, Esq., Walter Shryock described as "excessive" the $22.60 monthly payments the court ordered him on June 8 to pay toward the support of his mother, Mrs. Lillie Shryock, Germany township. Shryock claims it is "beyond his ability" to pay that amount each month and submitted a list of his annual expenses that leaves a balance of $18.28 over his annual income.

In refusing the petition for a re-opening of the case, Judge W. C. Sheely pointed out the court already had heard testimony in the case and had examined the financial ability of Shryock to support his mother. Other children of Mrs. Shryock were named in the action by the Public Assistance department but the support order was directed only to Walter Shryock.

The court on Saturday placed H. Keith Sanders, Gettysburg, on parole for two years. The parole was granted a week before the expiration of the minimum sentence of nine months imposed last fall for burglary and larceny.

Scouts To Gather
Scrap On Tuesday

Five Gettysburg troops of the Boy Scouts will take part in the town-wide collection of scrap metal and rubber on Tuesday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock and scheduled to be completed by 5 p. m.

Four trucks, one operating in each of four sectors of the town, will begin to cruise town streets at 1 o'clock in the quest for all types of scrap metals and rubber. Seven or eight Boy Scouts, members of Troops 75, 77, 78, 79 and 80, will man each truck and will conduct the house-to-house campaign.

Residents are asked to have their donations on the sidewalk in front of their homes or at some other accessible point to speed the work. The scrap metal and rubber gathered by the scouts will be sold by them to raise funds for summer camping and recreational work in their organization.

Arendtsville Boy Scouts will conduct their salvage campaign in their town on Wednesday evening. Fairfield is planning a similar campaign. Biglerville and Littlestown scouts already have staged their drives.

HANNAH NEELY IS LAWYER'S BRIDE

Miss Hannah Grace Neely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Neely, of Fairfield, was married to Daniel Edmund Teeter, Esq., son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Teeter, of Taneytown, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church. The Rev. Harry S. Ecker performed the single ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with white spring flowers, ferns and candles. Mark K. Eckert of Gettysburg, presided at the organ, playing the wedding marches from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had her sister, Miss Helen Neely, for her maid of honor. Mrs. Mark A. Eckert, Mrs. Robert A. Willis, and the Misses Jane and Agnes Neely, all sisters of the bride, were her bridesmaids. Little Miss Dona Barkley, of Bethesda, Maryland, was the flower girl.

Richard R. Teeter, of Taneytown, was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mark A. Eckert, Richard H. Eckert, of Gettysburg; John D. Teeter, of Taneytown, and Robert A. Willis, of Fairfield.

The bride was attired in a gown of white celanese made with a sweetheart neck. Her tulle veil was fastened with white stephanotis. Her bouquet was made of a white orchid surrounded with roses and (Please Turn to Page 2)

Libyan Disaster Thwarts Hopes For Second Front This Year; Whole War Prolonged; Allies To Revise PlansHalf-Hour Blackout Part Of All-Night Dim-Out Tuesday

DIM-OUT: From 8:30 p. m. (Tuesday) to 5 a. m. (Wednesday) pedestrian and automobile traffic will proceed normally, and street lights will be on, but other exterior lighting must be off and interior lighting must be screened from outside view.

BLACKOUT: For one-half hour during the night all exterior lighting will be extinguished. This half-hour will be announced by the usual siren alarm for a blackout. No pedestrian or automobile traffic will be permitted to move during the blackout. Only emergency vehicles will be allowed to proceed. The time of the half-hour blackout will be given local defense officials in sealed instructions.

PURPOSE: To teach by actual practice how to keep essential lights burning inside but with windows screened so that the reflection will not show outside to guide the enemy. The state council of defense has warned that during real air raids, blackouts may be continuous for many days and people must go on living and working.

SUGGESTION: Both the state and Adams county councils of defense have advocated the blacking out of one room in which the family may gather and from which light has been obscured through the use of black paint over windows and transoms, adhesive coverings, shades, screens or shutters.

COUNTIES: On Tuesday the dusk-to-dawn test will be held in the following counties: Bradford, Susquehanna, Sullivan, Wyoming, Lackawanna, Wayne, Pike, Union, Snyder, Northumberland, Montour, Columbia, Luzerne, Monroe, Carbon, Schuylkill, Northampton, Lehigh, Perry, Cumberland, Adams, Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, Bucks, Montgomery, York, Lancaster, Chester, Delaware and Philadelphia. The tests will be held in 20 central counties on Wednesday and in 16 counties in western Pennsylvania on Thursday.

HEAVY FIGHTING
AT SEVASTOPOL
Midway Victory
Balked Invasion
Try On West Coast

Moscow, June 22 (AP)—Sevastopol defenders dropped back from the north and south fortresses guarding the Crimean naval base today before enormous German pressure, exerted ceaselessly despite the heavy casualties, estimated at 100,000, which Axis forces have suffered in less than three weeks. A fresh Nazi wedge was forced in the fortifications to the north where the enemy massed a huge force of infantry, artillery and tanks, press accounts said.

Moscow, June 22 (AP)—The bloody battle for Sevastopol entered a crucial stage for the stubborn Soviet defenders today as the German attackers, already lodged inside the stronghold's outer defenses, fought bitterly and at great cost in lives and material to increase their advantage.

The fate of the historic Crimean fortress appeared to be in the balance as the second year of the costly German campaign in Soviet Russia opened, but Russia's "peasant president," Michael Kallinin, found cause to assure his people that "the end of Hitlerism is inevitable."

(The German high command declared that the entire region north of Sewernaja bay on the northern side of Sevastopol's defenses had been cleared of the defenders with the capture of the last coastal fort. "Destruction of enemy forces still resisting at the utmost tip of the isthmus is in progress," it continued.

"On the rest of the investing front German and Rumanian troops, supported by the luftwaffe, have assaulted and captured several forts and strongly defended heights."

(German planes shot down 28 Russian planes over Sevastopol and the Donets front yesterday, the communique declared.)

Next Few Weeks May Decide
If Nazis Get Middle-East Oil

(By The Associated Press)

The white flag that fluttered out Sunday morning over Tobruk's shattered barricades as a final, mute concession that a superior Axis force had reconquered Libya marks a major turn in the stratagems of war on two continents, if not in the whole world. So extended and intertwined are causes and effects of this capitulation that military experts were hard-pressed to trace them all but it was obvious that the Axis triumph was forcing a drastic reshaping, if not postponement or abandonment, of some plans of the United Nations.

BULLETINS

By DREW MIDDLETON

London, June 22 (AP)—A military disaster in Libya of such magnitude that it may have blighted the Allies' hopes for a second front in Europe this year and prolonged the whole war was acknowledged by the British today with undisguised anxiety.

All sources agreed that the Allies were faced with a crisis. The next few weeks, they said, will decide whether Germany can be beaten in 1942 or 1943 or will be able to fight on for years using the oil of the Middle East and the tin and rubber of the Far East.

It was expected that Prime Minister Churchill will face an aroused House of Commons when he returns from the United States, and some political observers said many members of Parliament were angered by what they called the "rosy picture" painted by the Prime Minister after the first clashes in the current campaign.

Decisive Battle in 60 Days
A military commentator in London, however, said that Axis claims to at least 25,000 prisoners taken at Tobruk were "exaggerated." It was believed little shipping was caught in the harbor.

The general view was that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's Eighth Army faced a decisive battle within 60 days, with Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel having his greatest advantage in his preponderance of armored formations.

The British line along the frontier is of slight use, some commentators believed, so long as the Axis has tanks to flank it through the oases of Siwa and Giarabub, and the reinforcement of Rommel by a (Please Turn to Page 2)

At the same time it was announced in Ottawa that an enemy submarine, presumably Japanese, had shelled the dominion government radio station at Estevan Point, Vancouver island, Saturday night. The submarine pumped shells at the station for about half an hour but failed to do any damage.

While the number of ships actually in Kiska harbor may have been small, observers pointed out that presence of a cruiser might indicate that a force of destroyers and auxiliaries was somewhere in the vicinity.

The communique said operations in the Aleutians "continued to be restricted by considerations of weather and great distances."

"Within the last few days, however," it added, "the weather was sufficiently clear at times to permit some restricted air operations against Kiska where tents and minor temporary structures were observed to have been set up on land."

The Navy reported on June 12 that a small enemy force had landed at Attu, a barren, rocky islet marking the westernmost tip of the Aleutian chain. At that time the presence of enemy ships at Kiska was noted, but they were reported shortly afterward to have been driven away.

Kiska, formerly used as a Navy coaling station, is about 275 miles east of Attu. About 20 miles long, it is sparsely inhabited by Indians and a few white traders.

A Canadian government telegraph station at Estevan Point on Vancouver Island was shelled by a submarine, Ottawa reported. "No damage resulted," said the report.

Sub Shells Vancouver Island
The shells landed on the beach or on the rocks well beyond the building," said Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, commander-in-chief of Canadian west coast defenses. "A few windows in the radio office were broken by the concussion." The submarine was not seen from the shore.

Nine Shells Landed
Then, at 11:30 o'clock last night, residents from Seaside on the Ocean to Astoria on the Columbia river, at the northwest tip of Oregon, were awakened by the sound of gunfire and the whine of speeding missiles. "Six to nine shells landed in the area north of Seaside," the Army said in a communique from western defense headquarters at San Francisco, "apparently from an unidentified craft off shore. Firing lasted 15 minutes. No damage or casualties reported."

Eyewitnesses agreed with the Army that the firing had been of no effect, but many felt certain they had heard more than nine shots. One was Robert Lucas, associate editor of the Astoria Budget. Awakened by the sound, he said, "I hurried upstairs to have a look (Please Turn to Page 6)

WOMEN BETTER THAN MEN IN MANY WAR JOBS

Harrisburg, June 20—(AP)—"The Little Woman" in overalls is making the performance of the man she replaced look bad in many humming war factories.

"Industries, reluctant as they are to switch to women workers, are fast learning they can earn more money than when men were doing piece work," asserted Mrs. Marj R. Morrow, Women's Bureau chief in the department of Labor and Industry.

Mrs. Morrow said "many thousands" are in labor's hair pin ranks, with a majority of them swinging heavy jobs which tradition held were men's work.

"I don't suppose we had 15 women handling welding jobs before 1939," she commented. "And now we have thousands doing every welding job with the exception of arc work."

At the Army's request, the bureau allowed women to do machine spot, shot and gas welding but it refused to approve women doing arc welding. Other tough jobs being done by the former housewives, clerks and stenographers include bench, machine and radio tube work.

In airplane factories and other war industries, women are doing heavy and skilled work on drills, lathes, turbines, punch presses, milling machines, power saws and wiring. Some are even doing police duty.

Brazil is the only country on the American continent which has produced silk on a commercial scale over a comparatively long period, the Department of Commerce reports.

Coil May Follow Points

What happens to one part of a car usually is a good clue to what may happen to another, but motorists who have to replace broken breaker points seldom take the hint. High voltage not only damages points but burns coils as well. So when the points go bad better seek the cause of the situation and not merely conclude that the points themselves were defective or of poor quality. Voltage sometimes goes as high as 10 volts.

More About Plugs

In these columns I previously pointed out that as an engine ages it is likely to run hotter and thus may need a different type of spark plug. A plug with a shorter insulator—known as a cooler plug—will dissipate this excess heat quicker. So far so good. But I want to add a proviso. Some engines are overcooled, so that even as they age they still manage to avoid overheating. In such cases we may need to use a hotter plug because of the fact that compression is certain to drop with age. A third point to consider is that if the engine is treated to a ring or reconditioning job there will be a return to normal compression which, combined with a tendency toward overheating may call for use of a cooler type of plug. Many conditions, and so we must consider many ways of meeting them.

Tells About Bearings

Whether the front wheel bearings are in good shape can be decided from inspection of the tube in the hub cap. After the fancy cap is removed pry off the small cap over the axle end and see if there is plenty of wheel bearing grease here. If the bearings have been heating there won't be any clean, unused grease. Rather the removed cap will show the remaining grease to be both dirty and thinned out.

One Waste You Save

Maybe you have already noticed that since driving at a more economical speed the shift lever on your car has less tendency to slip back to neutral position. This is because there is a marked reduction in rear-end chatter when the car is going down a roughly paved hill. Get the rear end shaking with the engine bobbing around in its flexible mounting, and the transmission locking device is overtaxed. The gears slip out and you have the consequent waste of slowing down, speeding up the engine and shifting back into gear.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"I try to do as many things about a car without the aid of tools as possible. This encourages me to use my head, and I manage to save a lot of time and money for customers as a result."

"The other day there was a question whether the generator cut-out with no charge being shown on the ammeter as the engine ran everything seemed to point to need for a new cut-out, but when I ran a wire from one post of the cut-out to and tear on the engine. This is particularly true of a lower range of pressure readings which simply means that the bearings are getting loose or worn and that they are less effective in restricting the flow of oil through the oiling system. If low oil pressure is due to insufficient oil or too light oil the engine will also indicate overheating. Where there is no such warning from the heat indicator the correct diagnosis of low pressure is that the bearings need replacing or that the oil pressure regulator spring is too weak.

Ping Due to Valves

Just because gas is now of lower octane rating don't assume that every ping is detonation. There are many other conditions which can cause mild knocking and one of the least considered of these is a warped valve. Where the edges of a valve's head do not seat evenly they may become overheated, thus preigniting the fuel by acting as an unelcome spark plugs.

Overheats Two Ways

If the car's fan isn't working you might be able to get by without a bad case of overheating were it not for the possibility that the water pump may also be driven by the belt which drives the fan. Belt trouble today often causes overheating two ways, and that is serious. Don't even let the belt slip, because even if it doesn't operate the water pump it does run the generator. A belt should be just tight enough so that you can move the fan a little if you bear on one of its blades.

What's On Your Mind?

Q. Having installed tire and wheel locks on my car I am wondering if any special care is needed to keep them the protection they should be.—H. P.

A. I do not know what type of lock you have installed, but if it has right fitting parts I suggest frequent oiling and cleaning, otherwise dirt and rust may present trouble in removing the wheel in event of tire trouble.

Meaning of Pressure Drop

Judging from my mail motorists still worry a lot about changes in reading of the oil pressure gauge. True, these changes always mean something but seldom do they warn of real trouble. Except for clogged lines, which is indicated by the pointer going to maximum reading and staying there, most of the conditions shown by the gauge are those which are natural to normal wear and the other, thus shorting it, we found that the ammeter still registered the same. That meant that the cut-out wasn't to blame. I found that the trouble originated in the generator itself. It could also have been due to a broken wire."

Too Much Resistance

Not all hard starting in summer is due to the fuel being too much vaporized or the engine being over-choked by the impatient driver. Often starting difficulty is a direct result of the car's radio. The car's original equipment coil may have been weakened by resistances placed in the high tension circuit. There are replacement coils which will stand such resistance and keep starting up to par.

About Those Car Guards

I've had a lot of questions regarding these automatic guards which start the car's horns blowing whenever anyone tampers with it. A popular question is what happens if someone bumps the car as in parking. Well, the horns blow for about 15 seconds, then stop. The other fellow won't bump your car again after that evidence of his carelessness. Many ask, "Will the horns blow if the car has to be parked on a hill or at an angle?" Position has no effect on the guards. The car must be disturbed as when a thief tries to raise the hood with the idea of cutting the horn wires. On some of the automatic alarms it is possible to adjust the warning control so as to get from 7 to 70 intermittent blows of the horns.

Replacing the Regulator?

If you are faced with the problem of replacing the voltage regulator on your car don't let anyone persuade you that any kind of regulator will do. There isn't even a universal type that will be satisfactory. You must use one that matches the particular make and type of generator already on the car, or else change the generator to match the regulator. The latter is necessary when considering using a vibrating regulator to replace the two-step kind.

ing in the regulator was not followed with the result that the generator's polarity was reversed. It is important to connect the wire to the "ground" terminal first, and the wire to the "F" terminal of the regulator last.

Q. In changing tires I usually have difficulty loosening the bead from the rim. Is there any way to check the tendency for the bead to stick and the rim to rust?

—W. M. B.

A. It is a good plan to rub a little vegetable oil soft soap on the inside as well as the outside of the bead. Then graphite the rim. Petroleum oils or greases should not be used for this purpose.

One of Britain's leading military experts said dive-bombing not only decided the issue at Bir Hacheim but was "to a great extent responsible for the fate of Tobruk."

Even more than the fall of Tobruk itself, alarm was felt because Rommel's thunderbolt assault on the fortress, once so staunchly held against seven months siege, showed that the Axis possessed a terrific striking power which appeared to have been woefully underestimated.

The whole British press called the grave setback in Libya a humiliating defeat which would require a titanic effort to offset.

On the basis of information available here now, the best qualified observers said Rommel apparently had caught the British flat-footed at Tobruk, massing such an overwhelming weight of armor and using it with such terrific drive that it could not be resisted.

Shake-up Predicted
The Mirror, a frequent government critic, declared that the sooner Prime Minister Churchill could get back from the United States "and make a frank and full statement the better."

The Times suggested that the British army on the north African desert needed "radical innovations in tactical method and mechanical design" and some observers predicted a shake-up in Britain's top command.

There is magic for the British in the name of General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the master of desert warfare who is regarded by the Germans as "Britain's one good general," and there was a possibility that Wavell, who invaded Libya successfully before with 30,000 men, may be called back from his present command in India to handle a situation which hourly grows graver.

Cairo, June 22 (AP)—Egypt and the whole British position in the middle east were menaced today by the capitulation of Tobruk under a smashing Axis offensive which has done incalculable damage to Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's weary Eighth army.

As the battered British survivors of the bloody Libyan campaign worked feverishly to strengthen their positions along the Egyptian border, military quarters here conceded the probable truth of Axis claims that 25,000 of Ritchie's men had been captured by the combined German-Italian forces which completed occupation of Tobruk yesterday.

There was no denial either of official reports from Berlin that German troops had pushed on from Tobruk to capture Bir El Gobi, a desert track center 40 miles to the southeast, and the port of Bardia, only eight miles from the Egyptian border.

Claim Much Booty
(Booty captured by Axis forces at Tobruk includes 100 tanks, several hundred guns and hundreds of motor vehicles, the Italian high command reported.)

(The commander of Tobruk fortress, the bulletin added, was among the prisoners—estimated yesterday to total approximately 25,000.)

(The Italians declared that the Axis forces, having completed the occupation of Tobruk, already were marching toward the Egyptian frontier.)

A British communique reported that an Axis column was moving toward Fort Capuzzo, which is just inside the Libyan border about 20 miles south and slightly east of Bardia.

in various islands of the archipelago had proceeded continuously since March 8. The Japanese occupation troops, he said, stay at important centers in the coastal area and seldom penetrate inland.

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Abandonment of plans for nationwide gasoline rationing was predicted in some congressional quarters today as administration lieutenants reportedly gave the "go ahead" signal for a senatorial investigation of the entire situation. Leaders were said to have agreed to support a proposal by Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) for a five-member special committee with a $5,000 appropriation for an immediate inquiry into shortages of gasoline and fuel oil, as well as the methods being employed to provide deliveries "for ordinary consumer use."

London, June 22 (AP)—Out of the veil of heat haze which shrouded the English channel today was heard the distant thunder of guns and bombs from the direction of France and bursts of closer firing which, for the second time last night, indicated a clash of surface craft at sea.

Recommends Dismissal Of Suit For Divorce

Raymond F. Topper, Esq., master in the divorce action by Violet May (McSherry) Raffensperger, Gettysburg, against Thomas H. Raffensperger, Philadelphia, has placed his report on file at the office of Prothonotary Lee M. Hartman at the court house recommending that the suit be dismissed.

Finding that there is not sufficient evidence to sustain the charge of "wilful and malicious desertion," Mr. Topper has recommended against the granting of a decree. The proceedings before the master disclosed that a divorce suit instituted by Raffensperger in Philadelphia courts had been contested by Mrs. Raffensperger and was dismissed.

baby's breath and stephanotis. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore dresses of white dimity with colored polka dots and carried bouquets of mixed flowers. Their headresses were made of real flowers.

Mrs. Teeter was graduated from Fairfield high school and from the Chambersburg Business college. Mr. Teeter is an alumnus of the Taneytown high school, Gettysburg college and the University of Pennsylvania law school. Since his graduation he has been practicing law in Gettysburg.

Williams—Corle

Miss Anne Corle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Corle, 36 East Middle street, and Robert E. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Williams, of Everett, were united in marriage last Thursday at 3 p. m. in a Methodist church in Winchester, Virginia.

The attendants were William Felton and Miss Norma Dayton, both of Everett.

Gore—Frost

Private Arthur R. Gore, former member of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police but now stationed at Harrisburg, and Miss Mary Ann Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Frost, Shenandoah, Pa., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Methodist church at Shenandoah by the Rev. James A. Simons, pastor of the church.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Frost, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Harry Gore, Butler, Pa., a brother of the bridegroom. Arthur Shulmberger and Carl Copenhagen, state motor policemen from Harrisburg, were the ushers. The bride was dressed in blush satin trimmed with lace and wore a fingertip veil. Her shower bouquet was of mixed flowers. The maid of

A 30-minute organ recital preceded the ceremony and there was vocal music by Mrs. Maximilian Seckendorf, Haddonfield, New Jersey. The organist was Miss Ruth Wasley.

A reception at the church followed the wedding and later the couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside in Harrisburg.

Rightnow—Ryder

Lighted candles and tall white lilies on the altar of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, formed the background for the wedding of Miss Madeline Ryder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ryder of Emmitsburg, and Wales Rightnow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Rightnow, of Gettysburg. The marriage rites and nuptial mass were conducted at 7:30 this morning by Rev. Francis J. Rodgers, pastor of the church.

Proceeding the ceremony appropriate music was played by the church organist, Mrs. Cyril Rotering. During the mass appropriate hymns were sung by the church choir.

The bridal party entered the sanctuary to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding Processional. The bride had as her only attendant, the maid of honor, Miss Irene Shorb. The best man was Gerald Ryder, Jr., brother of the bride.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wiley Rightnow, wore a beige street dress with white accessories and a corsage of talisman roses with yellow.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Green Parrot tea room to the bridal party and the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ryder, William Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Rightnow, Rose Rightnow, Marlene Rightnow, the Rev. Francis J. Rodgers, Mrs. Rose Shellenberger, Miss Margaret McIlhenny and Mrs. Samuel Cool.

After June 29, Mr. and Mrs. Rightnow will be at home at 6906 Ridgeway avenue, Dundalk, Maryland.

YORK SPRINGS DEDICATES NEW $9,000 FIRE HALL

A crowd estimated at several thousand persons witnessed the parade and participated in the celebration that surrounded the dedication Saturday evening of the new fire hall at York Springs.

Judge W. C. Sheely was the chief speaker at the dedicatory exercises held in the new building after the parade. There was a band concert and festival during the evening.

York Springs and Dillsburg bands marched in the parade which moved at 7 o'clock. More than a dozen pieces of fire fighting equipment belonging to the fire engine companies of Dillsburg, Franklintown, Gettysburg, Bendersville, Aspers, Barlow, Bonneauville, Hampton and York Springs.

One division of the parade was given over to "future firemen" of York Springs made up of more than a score of the youngsters of the town wearing special caps and carrying a banner. Boy and Girl Scouts of the town also marched.

The Rev. Earl N. Rowe, York Springs Methodist pastor, served as master of ceremonies for the formal dedicatory exercises that were conducted in the large assembly room of the new hall. J. R. Hantz, chairman of the building committee and a trustee of the fire company, presented the building to the company. The acceptance speech was given by the company president, Elmo Smith. Fire Chief F. E. Coulson spoke briefly and praised the work of the building committee. Music for the exercises was furnished by the York Springs school orchestra.

The new structure, together with its equipment, furnishings and fixtures, has been completed with an expenditure of about $9,000. While financial results of the festival Saturday evening are not known, receipts were said to total more than $600. Cash donations toward the cost of the building Saturday evening amounted to $175.

Cardinals, Sadder But Wiser Rejoice At Leaving Brooklyn

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sadder but wiser, the St. Louis Cardinals limped toward Boston today, able to rejoice in only two things—their departure from Brooklyn and the discovery of one pitcher who can fool the devastating Dodgers.

When the Cards invaded Flatbush last week they were riding on a seven-game winning streak and trailing the National league leaders by only four games and a half, but they bumped into a Brooklyn team that apparently is serious about representing the circuit in the world series once more.

By way of demonstrating their determination, the Dodgers slapped the Cardinals down four times out of five.

Cooper Only Bright Spot
For the Cards, the only bright spot of their visit was provided by Mort Cooper, their pitching ace, who might keep his club in the pennant struggle if he could do all the hurling whenever the two teams meet.

Cooper handcuffed the league champs on five hits in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader, while his mates hopped on three Dodger pitchers for 14 safeties, including home runs by Ray Sanders and Stan Musial, to compile an 11-0 shutout.

But the second game was the same old story again. Kirby Higbe pitched seven-hit ball for the Dodgers, who bunched their blows off Howard Pollet for a 5-2 decision. Joe Medwick connected safely in both games, stretching his consecutive game hitting streak to 25.

There were several other sparkling mound performances. Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox tossed a neat three-hitter, Cliff Melton pitched a four-hitter for the New York Giants and Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees turned in a five-hit job—all shutouts. Luman Harris of the Philadelphia Athletics and Ray Starr of the Cincinnati Reds also had five-hitters, but both yielded runs.

Lyon Wins 250th Game
Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox became the second active pitcher to win 250 games, joining Red Ruffing of the Yankees, who reached that goal only two weeks ago. Only 18 other hurlers ever have won that many games and only 10 have done it since the turn of the century.

Melton pitched the Giants to a 5-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs in the first game yesterday, but the Cubs took the nightcap, 7-2, as Stan Hack hit a two-run homer and pinch-hitter Dom Dallessandro smashed a four-bagger with the bases loaded.

The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Phils split, the Phils winning first 3-2, ended six-hit pitching by Tommy Hughes and the Reds rallying behind Star to square accounts, 2-1.

Punch-hitter Eddie Stewart tripled in the tenth inning with the bases loaded to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 decision over the Boston Braves. Their second game bowed to the weather.

Yanks Reserve Lead
The Cleveland Indians handed the New York Yankees their fifth straight loss, 3-2, but Borowy led the world champions out of the wilderness with a 4-0 shutout in the nightcap, preserving that seven-game lead.

Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 6-5 win over the Boston Red Sox in the first game, but Hughson evened it up in the second, which Boston won, 7-0.

Detroit and Al Benton beat Washington and Buck Newsom, 4-1, in the top half of their twin bill, only to lose the 10-inning nightcap to the Senators, 3-2, when Virgil Trucks, Tiger reliever, walked a man with the bases loaded.

The Philadelphia Athletics took both games from the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, and 4-3, with Bob Johnson supplying most of the batting punch.

"DEFENSE PROJECT"

Kittanning, Pa., June 22 (AP)—A droopy-eared hunting dog left on a farm abandoned to make way for a defense project near here was fed by plumbers and steamfitters who tossed her scraps and crumbs from their lunches. Then the dog had 10 pups. The workers, undismayed, are still carrying on. They rigged up a straw bed for the "family" and set up an empty bottle to take up collections for food. About $20 has been collected so far. The daily menu is two quarts of milk and a pound of ground steak.

TOO PERFECT

Idaho Falls, Ida. (AP)—District Judge C. J. Taylor denied a divorce, because both husband and wife proved each was entitled to it. Under Idaho law, the judge explained, he was forced to deny the decree when both parties "proved grounds for divorce." If either had sought it alone, the judge said, it probably would have been granted.

SOLDIER DROWNS

Langley Field, Va., June 22 (AP)—Military rites were conducted in Langley Field chapel yesterday for Paul Bloom, 21, private first class, specialist fifth class, who drowned while swimming off Buckroe beach Thursday. The body was returned to his Greensburg, Pa., home.

Louis Defends Title 21 Times In 5 Years

New York, June 22 (AP)—Five years ago tonight in Chicago Joe Louis knocked out James J. Braddock for the heavyweight boxing title and today the young negro heads back to the Midwest, this time as Corp. Joseph Louis Barrow, to condition himself for fighting of a different sort.

Louis will go directly to Fort Riley, Kansas, where he will complete his basic military training. The champion enlisted in the Army January 12 and was inducted two days later but the customary 13-week schooling period was stretched to more than five months to permit appearances at various events.

In Kansas, Army officials have indicated, Louis will concentrate entirely on becoming a soldier. During his five-year reign as the heavyweight king, Louis defended his title 21 times—more than any previous champion—and twice put the ring's most valuable possession in jeopardy free of charge to aid military relief organizations.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Wide World Sports Columnist
New York, June 22—Look for more big news to pop any day now on the athletic teams that have been doing a fair job of advertising our armed forces... but don't ask us to guess which direction it will pop... A lot of hints have been buzzing around that there's pressure from the upper regions to give the athletes less publicity and to keep them at their training chores, but there's also the unanswerable fact that their appearances speed up enlistments... Lowdown on that horseman's strike at Suffolk Downs, as reported by Leroy Atkinson of the Worcester Telegram, is that the blowoff began when a popular "swipe" nearly passed out from the shock of icy water in the stable shower bath... Lulu Costantino, who lost one fight out of 56 around New York, makes his Dixie debut tonight against George Hansford at New Orleans.

STRIKE-WHO'S OUT?

Fort Worth Sports scribes tell how Stub Overmore missed his swing at a third strike the other day and the right fielder threw him out at first base... Yes, it really happened. When the ball got away from the catcher, Overmore was slow in starting to run. The catcher threw over first, but the right fielder recovered the ball and got it to the bag in time to retire Sub.

MONDAY MATINEE

Seems appropriate that the south's first National Intercollegiate Tennis tournament is starting today at Tulane, which has been turning out good tennis players for years... Jimmy Curran, the veteran Mercersburg, Pa., academy track coach, reports that so many of the young college athletes are joining the Navy he thinks he'll have to sign up, too, so he won't lose contact with his ex-pupils... "They're like we were in '99 when I went out to the Boer war," says Jimmy. "We were afraid the war would be over before we could get into it."... Big Joe Vydra, the Chicago schoolboy slugger, finally decided to take the Cardinals' offer of a major league tryout next spring if he hits over .300 for Decatur, Illinois, this season.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Tommy Fitzgerald, Louisville Courier Journal: "Scout Johnny Nee of the Yankees has gone to Florida to sign up a couple of high school baseball players. Well, they've said all along that if there's any baseball next year we'll probably have to use kids in Nee pants."

SERVICE DEPT.

"Then a group of officers from the south came to Chanute Field, Illinois, for specialized work, a private was assigned to give them physical training... noting that the Doughboys hesitated to shout orders to guys with bars on their shoulders, one of the southerners hollered: 'Go ahead, soldier. We're up here to learn some of your Yankee tricks.'... Samuel Hardwick, who was known as the 'Dublin Flash' when he played football for Virginia Tech, has been promoted from captain to major at Fort Benning, Georgia. Sounds like a natural for the A.E.F. in Ireland... Ensign George Paskavan, Green Bay Packers' fullback, is the fifth National league footballer to join Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman's staff at the Iowa Naval Pre-Flight School... and they say officers will be eligible to play with the students!

WHAT PRICE?

Price Brookfield, the sharpshooting West Texas basketball, isn't pitching 'em so straight on the ball field... in his first four appearances as a flinger for Borger in the West Texas-New Mexico league, Brookfield gave 15 runs, 22 hits, 13 walks, fanned eight, hit one batsman and made four wild pitches... but he whacked nine hits in 12 at bat to lead the league with .750.

BEN HOGAN WINS 1ST MAJOR TITLE AT RIDGEMOOR

By GAYLE TALBOT

Chicago, June 22 (AP)—Little Ben Hogan, some 135 pounds of pure whipcord, finally crashed through to win that major golf championship which eluded him so long while he was busy winning most of the money and otherwise establishing himself as the uncrowned king of the links.

His victory in the Hale America tournament which ended yesterday at the Ridgemoor club was about as brilliant a feat as golf has seen. His total of 271 for the 72 holes shattered by 10 strokes the record for the National Open championship. On his second round he shot an almost unbelievable 62.

Name Not on Records

Yet, ironically, the supreme goal of every golfer still eludes the Hershey, Pa. ace. His name will not appear in golf's record book as winner of the National Open title. Because of the war, there will be no Open tournament this year. This was the closest thing to it. Hogan, though, was not in a mood to accept any sympathy after he had rolled in putts from all sorts of distances to score his clinching 68 yesterday.

"What difference does it make?" he demanded. "If this wasn't an Open championship I don't know what could be. Everybody was in it. I'm glad to win, whatever they call it. I never expected to be close after that 72 I shot the first day. There were 62 other players even with me or better than that night."

Steve Kovach of Tarentum, Pa., and Frank Connolly of St. Clair Shores, Michigan, were the low amateurs. Each had a 72-hole total of 282.

Ben was the winner, the player who pocketed first prize of $1,000. The "goat" of the four-day event—and there seems to be one in every tournament—was Jimmy Demaret, of Detroit. Jimmy needed only to shoot the last four holes in par to score a 66 on his final round and finish in a tie with Hogan for the title. Instead, he went to pieces, drove like the rankest duffer on three consecutive holes and wound up in a tie with Mike Turnesa for second place with a total of 274.

Tense Final Round

To sum it up, Hogan's four rounds were 72-62-69-68—271. Demaret had 68-68-69-69—274; Turnesa 65-66-72-71—274. The final round was a tense one, with close to 8,000 spectators tearing over the course in the hot sunshine, trying to stock with the winner. Demaret broke a lot of hearts when he blew up in sight of the finish.

After the first three contenders, the field was widely scattered. Seven strokes behind Hogan at 278 were Horton Smith, Jimmy Thomson and Byron Nelson. Thomson's 66 was the best round of the final day. Tied at 280 were Lawson Little and Eddie Burke; at 281 were Dick Metz, Jim Ferrier and Lloyd Mangrum. From there they soared on into the 300-odd brackets.

Mel Hein To Coach Union College In '43

Schenectady, N. Y., June 22 (AP)—Mel Hein will become head football coach at Union college in 1943 after completing a dozen years with the New York Giants next fall.

College officials announced the appointment, effective January 1, 1943, today, saying the veteran center's contract with the Giants extends through the coming season. In addition to his coaching duties, Hein will be associate professor of physical education.

Hein went to the Giants in 1931 after a career at Washington State, climaxed by his being chosen All-American center. He was selected All-Professional league pivot man eight seasons and in 1938 received the National league's most valuable player award. The salary he will receive at Union was not announced.

He will succeed Art Lawrence, who will direct this fall's season.

BACK TO WORK

Philadelphia, June 22 (AP)—Philadelphia laundries began work on a huge backlog of dirty clothes today as an 11-day strike of 1,400 workers ended. Through federal conciliation, companies and the Laundry and Linen Supply Drivers union (AFL) reached an agreement increasing the drivers' base pay from $10 to $11 and commissions from 13 to 14 per cent.

Up In The Clouds In Record Try

Soon after setting a new meet record of 15 feet 2½ inches at the A.A.U. championships at New York, Cornelius Warmerdam, the California school teacher, attempted (above) to shatter his own world's record by vaulting 15 feet 9 inches, but an elbow brushed off the crossbar on his way down.

SURVIVORS ARE UNDER NAZI FIRE

Somewhere in the North Atlantic, June 18 (Delayed) (AP)—The tired crew of a munitions convoy to Russia, hearing a shrill "here they come again" from lofty lookouts, pulled helmets tighter and sped to action stations to meet the challenge of German bombers attacking for the third consecutive day.

The convoy so far had been lucky. Not a single ship had been hit. Heretofore the attackers had been light Stuka dive bombers but now the enemy formations were made up of larger torpedo-carrying aircraft—newest Nazi instrument against the vital Arctic Soviet supply line.

The raiders attacked fiercely and as the anti-aircraft guns of the entire convoy opened fire the gray northern sky was criss-crossed with belts of flame.

One German bomber was hit while directly over the middle of the convoy. It fell blazing less than 100 feet from a ship.

An aerial torpedo hit a British merchantman, blowing it up.

The story of the attack was told today by the officers and crewmen of an American freighter which was only lengths from the British ship.

The British Admiralty already has announced that 90 per cent of the convoy reached Murmansk safely.

Here's a sensible way TO GET OUT OF DEBT

You may wonder how you can get out of debt now, when you haven't been able to before. The answer lies in getting a cash loan from Personal Finance Co. With this money you'll be able to pay off your debts at once. Then you repay Personal in monthly amounts you can afford. This doesn't put you deeper into debt—it adjusts to a cash basis the debts you already have.

Personal makes loans on signature, furniture, or auto, to men and women, single or married, employed on either a new job or an old one. Sensible monthly payments.

We don't believe that folks should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to their problem. If it is, and you need $10 to $250 or more, come in or phone.

13 ACCIDENTAL DEATHS LISTED

(By The Associated Press)

Thirteen Pennsylvanians, three of them service men, died in accidents over the week-end.

A mid-air crash of two Army planes near San Diego, Calif., killed Staff Sgt. Walter Henry Lang, Jr., of Alden, Pa., and another officer.

Second Lt. Robert Rogo, 26, of Old Forge, died when his Army pursuit plane crashed near Londonderry, New Hampshire, and Private Edward J. Phillips, of Philadelphia, was fatally injured in an automobile crash near Denver, Colorado.

A. Ralph Myers, 39, electrical foreman at the Lukens Steel company plant in Coatesville, and his wife, Isabel, 38, were killed in a highway collision at Downingtown.

Mrs. John N. Snyder, of Williamsport, wife of the deputy clerk of courts of Dauphin county, was killed and her husband was injured when their automobile crashed into a stone pile at Friedensburg.

At Philipsburg, Victor Yastro, 14, Osceola Mills, was drowned after his boat capsized in Black Moshannon dam.

Mrs. Adah Bahr, 77, was killed by a freight train in Canaan. Her husband died in a similar accident 15 years ago.

John Casey, 39, was drowned in Little Muncy creek near Bloomsburg.

Two-year-old Sarah Watson was drowned when she fell into a creek filled with water in her home in Nilan Hill, Pa.

A bolt of lightning killed Jack Marshall, 23, as he ran for cover at Towanda.

Beamish Promises Aid In State Bus Problem

Harrisburg, June 22 (AP)—Delegates to the Pennsylvania Bus association's annual convention were told today that "the Pennsylvania Public Utility commission is watching sympathetically every phase of your problems."

"We are with you up to the hilt," asserted PUC Commissioner Richard J. Beamish in an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting.

"You are one public utility whose interests we will actively promote and defend because you are a line of defense and offense directly behind the men in the fighting line." Beamish pointed out that tire and gasoline rationing added to the load bus systems must absorb and declared:

"We have just commenced to feel the impact of this tremendous burden. x x x Every highway in the nation has suddenly become an extension of the production line turning out war material and the thick stream of busses must carry the load. x x x"

"Fortunately we have in the bus industry the intelligence, the resourcefulness and the patriotism to accomplish this result."

Cardinals, Sadder But Wiser Rejoice At Leaving Brooklyn

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sadder but wiser, the St. Louis Cardinals limped toward Boston today, able to rejoice in only two things—their departure from Brooklyn and the discovery of one pitcher who can fool the devastating Dodgers.

When the Cards invaded Flatbush last week they were riding on a seven-game winning streak and trailing the National league leaders by only four games and a half, but they bumped into a Brooklyn team that apparently is serious about representing the circuit in the world series once more.

By way of demonstrating their determination, the Dodgers slapped the Cardinals down four times out of five.

Cooper Only Bright Spot
For the Cards, the only bright spot of their visit was provided by Mort Cooper, their pitching ace, who might keep his club in the pennant struggle if he could do all the hurling whenever the two teams meet.

Cooper handcuffed the league champs on five hits in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader, while his mates hopped on three Dodger pitchers for 14 safeties, including home runs by Ray Sanders and Stan Musial, to compile an 11-0 shutout.

But the second game was the same old story again. Kirby Higbe pitched seven-hit ball for the Dodgers, who bunched their blows off Howard Pollet for a 5-2 decision. Joe Medwick connected safely in both games, stretching his consecutive game hitting streak to 25.

There were several other sparkling mound performances.

Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox tossed a neat three-hitter, Cliff Melton pitched a four-hitter for the New York Giants and Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees turned in a five-hit job—all shutouts. Luman Harris of the Philadelphia Athletics and Ray Starr of the Cincinnati Reds also had five-hitters, but both yielded runs.

Lyons Wins 25th Game
Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox became the second active pitcher to win 250 games, joining Red Ruffing of the Yankees, who reached that goal only two weeks ago. Only 18 other hurlers ever have won that many games and only 10 have done it since the turn of the century.

Melton pitched the Giants to a 5-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs in the first game yesterday, but the Cubs took the nightcap, 7-2, as Stan Hack hit a two-run homer and pinch-hitter Dom Dallessandro smashed a four-bagger with the bases loaded.

The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Phils split, the Phils winning first 3-2, behind six-hit pitching by Tommy Hughes and the Reds rallying behind Starr to square accounts, 2-1.

Pinch-hitter Eddie Stewart tripled in the tenth inning with the bases loaded to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 decision over the Boston Braves. Their second game bowed to the weather.

Yanks Reserve Lead
The Cleveland Indians handed the New York Yankees their fifth straight loss, 3-2, but Borowy led the wildness with a 4-0 shutout in the nightcap, preserving that seven-game lead.

Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 6-5 win over the Boston Red Sox in the first game, but Hughson evened it up in the second, which Boston won, 7-0.

Detroit and Al Benton beat Washington and Buck Newsom, 4-1, in the top half of their twin bill, only to lose the 10-inning nightcap to the Senators, 3-2, when Virgil Trucks, Tiger reliever, walked a man with the bases loaded.

The Philadelphia Athletics took both games from the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, and 4-3, with Bob Johnson supplying most of the batting punch.

"DEFENSE PROJECT"
Kittanning, Pa., June 22 (AP)—A droopy-eared hunting dog left on a farm abandoned to make way for a defense project near here was fed by plumbers and steamfitters who tossed her scraps and crumbs from their lunches. Then the dog had 10 pups. The workers, undismayed, are still carrying on. They rigged up a straw bed for the "family" and set up an empty bottle to take up collections for food. About $20 has been collected so far. The daily menu is two quarts of milk and a pound of ground steak.

TOO PERFECT
Idaho Falls, Ida. (AP)—District Judge C. J. Taylor denied a divorce, because both husband and wife proved each was entitled to it. Under Idaho law, the judge explained, he was forced to deny the decree when both parties "proved grounds for divorce." If either had sought it alone, the judge said, it probably would have been granted.

SOLDIER DROWNS
Langley Field, Va., June 22 (AP)—Military rites were conducted in Langley Field chapel yesterday for Paul Bloom, 21, private first class, specialist fifth class, who drowned while swimming off Buckroe beach Thursday. The body was returned to his Greensburg, Pa., home.

Mel Hein To Coach Union College In '43

Schenectady, N. Y., June 22 (AP)—Mel Hein will become head football coach at Union college in 1943 after completing a dozen years with the New York Giants next fall. College officials announced the appointment, effective January 1, 1943, today, saying the veteran center's contract with the Giants extends through the coming season. In addition to his coaching duties, Hein will be associate professor of physical education.

Hein went to the Giants in 1931 after a career at Washington State, climaxed by his being chosen All-American center. He was selected All-Professional league pivot man eight seasons and in 1938 received the National league's most valuable player award. The salary he will receive at Union was not announced.

He will succeed Art Lawrence, who will direct this fall's season.

BACK TO WORK

Philadelphia, June 22 (AP)—Philadelphia laundries began work on a huge backlog of dirty clothes today as an 11-day strike of 1,400 workers ended. Through federal conciliation, companies and the Laundry and Linen Supply Drivers union (AFL) reached an agreement increasing the drivers' base pay from $10 to $11 and commissions from 13 to 14 per cent.

Up In The Clouds In Record Try

SURVIVORS ARE UNDER NAZI FIRE

Somewhere in the North Atlantic, June 18 (Delayed) (AP)—The tired crew of a munitions convoy to Russia, hearing a shrill "here they come again" from lofty lookouts, pulled helmets tighter and sped to action stations to meet the challenge of German bombers attacking for the third consecutive day.

The convoy so far had been lucky. Not a single ship had been hit. Heretofore the attackers had been light Stuka dive bombers but now the enemy formations were made up of larger torpedo-carrying aircraft—newest Nazi instrument against the vital Arctic Soviet supply line.

The raiders attacked fiercely and as the anti-aircraft guns of the entire convoy opened fire the gray northern sky was criss-crossed with belts of flame.

One German bomber was hit while directly over the middle of the convoy. It fell blazing less than 100 feet from a ship.

An aerial torpedo hit a British merchantman, blowing it up. The story of the attack was told today by the officers and crewmen of an American freighter which was only lengths from the British ship.

The British Admiralty already has announced that 90 per cent of the convoy reached Murmansk safely.

E. H. McGuire, of New Orleans, radio operator on the American ship, said one German plane bombed and machine-gunned a small "crash" boat that picked up survivors of three sunken ships.

"There were about 60 men in the crash boat," he said. "The plane came down to within a few hundred feet, then opened up."

"I believe those Nazis were poor marksmen though, because from our ship it appeared none of the survivors was hit."

G. W. Hudgins of Jersey City, captain of the same American vessel, said, "We didn't have our clothes off during the entire trip in Arctic regions. We just slept whenever we could as we were on the alert nearly all the time. There were so many alarms I lost count."

He said that while he was in Murmansk harbor 42 air raid alarms were sounded. Nazi planes always were strongly resisted by Russian fighters.

He described Murmansk as a city in battle dress, half deserted and with only necessities obtainable. Women help unload ships.

Hospitals, he said, were badly in need of more doctors and medical supplies.

Several American seamen, summing up their experiences, said greater air protection was needed to insure safe passage of convoys.

LILLEY ELECTED

Towanda, Pa., June 22 (AP)—J. Roy Lilley is the new chairman of the Bradford County Republican committee. He was named to succeed H. C. Carpenter of Troy, who did not seek reelection.

Beamish Promises Aid In State Bus Problem

Harrisburg, June 22 (AP)—Delegates to the Pennsylvania Bus association's annual convention were told today that "the Pennsylvania Public Utility commission is watching sympathetically every phase of your problems."

"We are with you up to the hilt," asserted PUC Commissioner Richard J. Beamish in an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting.

"You are one public utility whose interests we will actively promote and defend because you are a line of defense and offense directly behind the men in the fighting line."

Beamish pointed out that tire and gasoline rationing added to the load bus systems must absorb and declared:

"We have just commenced to feel the impact of this tremendous burden. x x x Every highway in the nation has suddenly become an extension of the production line turning out war material and the thin stream of busses must carry the load. x x x

"Fortunately we have in the bus industry the intelligence, the resourcefulness and the patriotism to accomplish this result."

ENTOMOLOGIST DIES

Reading, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Herman Hornig, 80, entomologist of the Reading public museum and art gallery, collapsed and died Saturday while waiting in line to pay taxes at city hall.

Here's a sensible way TO GET OUT OF DEBT

You may wonder how you can get out of debt now, when you haven't been able to before. The answer lies in getting a cash loan from Personal.

With this money you'll be able to pay off your debts at once. Then you repay Personal in monthly amounts you can afford.

This doesn't put you deeper into debt. It simply adjusts to a cash basis the debts you already have.

Personal makes loans on signature, furniture, or auto, to men and women, single or married, employed on either a new job or an old one. Sensible monthly payments:

$16.85 a month repays a $100 loan in 12 months.

We don't believe that folks should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to their problem. If it is, and you need $10 to $250 or more, come in or phone.

division or even so much as a brigade might tip the scales heavily in his favor.

One of Britain's leading military experts said die-bombing not only decided the issue at Bir Hacheim but was "to a great extent responsible for the fate of Tobruk."

Even more than the fall of Tobruk itself, alarm was felt because Rommel's thunderbolt assault on the fortress, once so staunchly held against seven months siege, showed that the Axis possessed a terrific striking power which appeared to have been woefully underestimated.

The whole British press called the grave setback in Libya a humiliating defeat which would require a titanic effort to offset.

On the basis of information available here now, the best qualified observers said Rommel apparently had caught the British flat-footed at Tobruk, missing such an overwhelming weight of armor and using it with such terrific drive that it could not be resisted.

Shake-up Predicted
The Mirror, a frequent government critic, declared that the sooner Prime Minister Churchill could get back from the United States "and make a frank and full statement the better."

The Times suggested that the British army on the north African desert needed "radical innovations in tactical method and mechanical design" and some observers predicted a shake-up in Britain's top command.

There is magic for the British in the name of General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the master of desert warfare, who is regarded by the Germans as "Britain's one good general," and there was a possibility that Wavell, who invaded Libya successfully before with 30,000 men, may be called back from his present command in India to handle a situation which hourly grows graver.

Cairo, June 22 (AP)—Egypt and the whole British position in the middle east were menaced today by the capitulation of Tobruk under a smashing Axis offensive which has done incalculable damage to Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's weary Eighth army.

As the battered British survivors of the bloody Libyan campaign worked feverishly to strengthen their positions along the Egyptian border, military quarters here conceded the probable truth of Axis claims that 25,000 of Ritchie's men had been captured by the combined German-Italian forces which completed occupation of Tobruk yesterday.

There was no denial either of official reports from Berlin that German troops had pushed on from Tobruk to capture Bir El Gobi, a desert track center 40 miles to the southeast, and the port of Bardia, only eight miles from the Egyptian border.

Claim Much Booty
(Booty captured by Axis forces at Tobruk includes 100 tanks, several hundred guns and hundreds of motor vehicles, the Italian high command reported.)

(The commander of Tobruk fortress, the bulletin added, was among the prisoners—estimated yesterday to total approximately 25,000.)

Five other generals also were reported captured. None was identified, however.

(The Italians declared that the Axis forces, having completed the occupation of Tobruk, already were marching toward the Egyptian frontier.)

A British communique reported that an Axis column was moving toward Fort Capuzzo, which is just inside the Libyan border about 20 miles south and slightly east of Bardia.

BULLETINS

in various islands of the archipelago had proceeded continuously since March 8. The Japanese occupation troops, he said, stay at important centers in the coastal area and seldom penetrate inland.

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Abandonment of plans for nationwide gasoline rationing was predicted in some congressional quarters today as administration lieutenants reportedly gave the "go ahead" signal for a senatorial investigation of the entire situation. Leaders were said to have agreed to support a proposal by Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) for a five-member special committee with a $3,000 appropriation for an immediate inquiry into shortages of gasoline and fuel oil, as well as the methods being employed to provide deliveries "for ordinary consumer use."

London, June 22 (AP)—Out of the veil of haze which shrouded the English channel today was heard the distant thunder of guns and bombs from the direction of France and bursts of closer firing which, for the second time last night, indicated a clash of surface craft at sea.

baby's breath and Stephanotis. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore dresses of white dimity with colored polka dots and carried bouquets of mixed flowers. Their headresses were made of real flowers.

A reception for members of the family and friends was held at the home of the bride immediately after the ceremony.

Mrs. Teeter was graduated from Fairfield high school and from the Chambersburg Business college. Mr. Teeter is an alumnus of the Taneytown high school, Gettysburg college and the University of Pennsylvania law school. Since his graduation he has been practicing law in Gettysburg.

The couple left on a wedding trip with the destination unannounced.

Miss Anne Corle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Corle, 36 East Middle street, and Robert E. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Williams, of Everett, were united in marriage last Thursday at 3 p. m. in a Methodist church in Winchester, Virginia.

The attendants were William Pelton and Miss Norma Dayton, both of Everett.

The bride is a graduate of the Altoona high school in the class of 1940 and has been employed in the attendance records office of that school. Mr. Williams is employed by the Everett Motor company.

They will reside at Everett.

Gore-Frost

Private Arthur R. Gore, former member of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police but now stationed at Harrisburg, and Miss Mary Ann Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Frost, Shenandoah, Pa., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Methodist church at Shenandoah by the Rev. James A. Simons, pastor of the church.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Frost, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Harry Gore, Butler, Pa., a brother of the bridegroom.

Arthur Shulenberg and Carl Copenhaver, state motor policemen from Harrisburg, were the ushers.

The bride was dressed in blush satin trimmed with lace and wore a fingertip veil. Her shower bouquet was of mixed flowers. The maid of honor wore blue and carried pink gladiolus. The church was decorated with white candles, ferns and cut flowers.

A 30-minute organ recital preceded the ceremony and there was vocal music by Mrs. Maxmillian Seckendorf, Haddonfield, New Jersey. The organist was Miss Ruth Wasley.

A reception at the church followed the wedding and later the couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside in Harrisburg.

Rightmour-Ryder

Lighted candles and tall white lilies on the altar of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, formed the background for the wedding of Miss Madeline Ryder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ryder of Emmitsburg, and Wales Rightmour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Rightmour, of Gettysburg. The marriage rites and nuptial mass were conducted at 7:30 this morning by Rev. Francis J. Rodgers, pastor of the church.

Preceding the ceremony appropriate music was played by the church organist, Mrs. Cyril Rousing. During the mass appropriate hymns were sung by the church choir.

The bride party entered the sanctuary to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding Processional. The bride had as her only attendant, the maid of honor, Miss Irene Shorb. The best man was Gerald Ryder, Jr., brother of the bride.

The maid of honor wore an aqua printed crepe street ensemble with a large white picture hat with white accessories. She wore a shoulder bouquet of yellow rose buds and white carnations. The men in the bride party wore gray gabardine suits and white carnation boutonnieres. The traditional Mendelssohn's recessional was used.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wiley Rightmour, wore a beige street dress with white accessories and a corsage of talisman roses with yellow.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Green Parrot tea room to the bride party and the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ryder, William Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Rightmour, Rose Rightmour, Mariene Rightmour, the Rev. Francis J. Rodgers, Mrs. Rose Shellenberger, Miss Margaret McIlhenny and Mrs. Samuel Cool.

After June 29, Mr. and Mrs. Rightmour will be at home at 6906 Ridgeway avenue, Dundalk, Maryland.

YORK SPRINGS DEDICATES NEW $9,000 FIRE HALL

A crowd estimated at several thousand persons witnessed the parade and participated in the celebration that surrounded the dedication Saturday evening of the new fire hall at York Springs.

Judge W. C. Sheely was the chief speaker at the dedicatory exercises held in the new building after the parade. There was a band concert and festival during the evening.

York Springs and Dillsburg bands marched in the parade which moved at 7 o'clock. More than a dozen pieces of fire fighting equipment belonging to the fire engine companies of Dillsburg, Franklinton, Gettysburg, Benderville, Aspers, Barlow, Bonneauville, Hampton and York Springs.

One division of the parade was given over to "future firemen" of York Springs made up of more than a score of the youngsters of the town wearing special caps and carrying a banner. Boy and Girl Scouts of the town also marched.

The Rev. Earl N. Rowe, York Springs Methodist pastor, served as master of ceremonies for the formal dedicatory exercises that were conducted in the large assembly hall of the new hall. J. R. Hantz, chairman of the building committee and a trustee of the fire company, presented the building to the company.

The acceptance speech was given by the company president, Elmo Smith. Fire Chief P. E. Coulson spoke briefly and praised the work of the building committee. Music for the exercises was furnished by the York Springs school orchestra.

The new structure, together with its equipment, furnishings and fixtures, has been completed with an expenditure of about $9,000. While financial results of the festival Saturday evening are not known, receipts were said to total more than $600. Cash donations toward the cost of the building Saturday evening amounted to $175.

On the 12th inst., Mrs. Rebecca Dickson, wife of Samuel Dickson, of Mountpleasant township, aged 38 years.

Large Gooseberry: Mr. McClellan has a splendid article in the Gooseberry way. One was exhibited to us, which measures four inches by three.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Visit of Gen. Grant and Gov.

Geary: Thursday was an interesting day in Gettysburg. At an early hour, flags were flung to the breeze, the streets were lighted up with strangers and the busy crowd teemed with expectation.

By the noon train, Gov. Geary, Deputy Secretary Gara, Private Secretary Duglison, and several ladies arrived, and took lodging at the Franklin House. Gen. Grant was brought by special train from Hanover Junction, and arrived at 4 o'clock. He was met at the depot by Gov. Geary and the committee of arrangement of the Board of Commissioners of the National Cemetery. As the party reached the street they were loudly cheered by the large crowd. They repaired to the residence of David Wills, Esq., where Gen. Grant and his aid Gen.
Porter remained during their stay.
So great was the anxiety of the crowd that they immediately called out Gen. Grant and Gov. Geary; the latter responded in some happy remarks which were well received.

After dining, the party visited the field west of the town, and also rode out to Cemetery Hill the next morning completing the examination of the entire field. In the evening an impromptu entertainment was given them at the Franklin House by the commissioners of the cemetery; and Friday after Gen. Grant

POETS AND POETRY

Every dog, it is said, has his day.
Meaning, I take it, that the dog gets full credit while he lives. Not so with poets—as a rule. Few great poets are acclaimed in their day.
There are notable exceptions, but these only stand out to prove the rule that they have to die first before the critics and the poet's few admirers, are outnumbered by the populace.

Byron awoke one day "to find himself famous." But Whitman didn't, nor did Poe. The little handful of first editions of "The Ru-biyat," by Omar Khayyam, and the "Kasidah," by Burton went begging at a few cents each. And where did the early editions of Shakespeare hide? Only in a few places, for there were few to hide!

The most talented, and perhaps the greatest real genius, in the form of a poet, whose work dominated the poetic sky after the war, was Rupert Brooke—and yet how few of his books were printed and sold.
Even today, though he is widely and highly acclaimed, he is read by comparatively few. But the genius of the man, and the beauty of his character, will grow luminous with the years.

Sir Walter Raleigh, the English critic, said: "A poet must wrestle with his own generation and convince them to see what it is hard for them to see, things that are hidden by being fixed for ever in the most conspicuous place." How clear is that truth of Whitman, whose works were actually banned in many places. Emerson, however, visioned his rising star.

I am glad to see at least one American poet receive his appreciation in life. I refer to Robert Frost, who, in my humble opinion, is the most American of them all. It is a joy to read his poems. There is a human, democratic quality about them, and they are clothed with such rare simplicity. It took 50 years for America to discover the lovely poems of Emily Dickinson!

Recently I have been reading many of the poems of Edward Thomas, whose death in the last war, like that of Brooke's was such a tragedy. And high among American poets I place the late Don Marquis, whose poems will yet be appreciated for their beauty and high quality.

I know next to nothing about the technical make-up of poetry, but to read the finest is like feeling the touch of a cool wind upon a hot summer day, or like listening to the velvety tones of a violin in the twilight. Read poetry to rest and soothe the mind.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Your Calling."

left for Washington, and Gov. Geary for Harrisburg.

Marriages: Burton—Shields. On the 12th inst., at Knoxville, Ill., at the residence of the Rev. J. N.
Johnston, H. B. Burton, of Galesburg, Ill., and Miss Nannie C.
Shields, formerly of this place.

Rudisil—Eckert. On the 2d inst.,
by Rev. D. Wolf, Joseph Rudisil to Miss Belle Eckert, both of Mount-pleasant township, Adams county.

Sheffer—Newman. At the same place, by the same, on the 13th inst., Philip Sheffer, of Glen Rock, to Mrs. Susannah Newman, of Franklin township, this county.

Local Items: Rev. J. R. Warner will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath evening. This will be his last service in town before leaving for the west.

Ex-president James Buchanan has sent one hundred dollars to the treasury of the National Orphan Homestead, and has become an honorary life director of the institution.

Concrete Pavement: George Roth, of Chambersburg, last week put down a concrete pavement in front of the residence of Perry J. Tate.
A heavy rain came on immediately after it was finished, but made no impression upon it. The job appears to be very well executed, and it is claimed that it is cheaper and more durable than brick.

Town Improvements: Dr. T. T.
Tate has bought of George H.
Swope, the western half of the lot recently purchased by him from Rev. Dr. Schmuicker, in Chambersburg street, and is erecting a two-story dwelling.

Nicholas Weaver is also building a two-story dwelling on the western half of his lot on the south side of Chambersburg street.

George Stallsmith is building a double frame house, on the southeast corner of Liberty and York streets.

The Indian Doctor will be at Gettysburg, at the Eagle hotel, on Monday, June 23, to remain until the 1st of July.—His notice is in another column of the paper.

CLOSER CONTACT WITH MILITARY BEING SOUGHT

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Complete reorganization of the War Production Board, including a re-shuffling of some top officials, probably will be announced this week, with indications that WPB's future operations will be tied ever more tightly to demands for military strategy.

Heading the personnel changes, it was learned today, will be the transfer of William H. Harrison, chief of WPB's production division to the War department, where he presumably will take over an important post in the procurement setup of the service of supply.

Elasticity Sought

Of major significance in plans for the new setup is a move to bring WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson and the Army and Navy chiefs of staff into closer contact, with a view toward increasing elasticity of war production to fit swiftly changing military requirements.

During recent conferences with Captain Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of supply, Nelson told reporters that the combined British and American production board intended to aim for standardization of military equipment, and close coordination of British and American war production with strategy and tactical developments on all United Nations fronts.

The WPB shake-up, it was understood, would effect this coordination so far as the United States is concerned.

Not Based on Senate Report

Officials made it clear that the changes would not be based on the recent report of the Senate defense investigating committee, criticizing dollar-a-year men in WPB. The new setup is to be based on recommendations of Dr. Luther Gulick, head of Columbia university's school of business administration, who has spent two months here studying kinks in the agency's operations.

Decrying congressional criticism of war production officials, Senator George (D-Ga.) said that "an overwhelming majority" of the dollar-a-year men and others "have done a marvelous job and have done it in a big way."

GRADUATION SPEECH
Said Old Crankie as we chatted:
"Here's the merry month of June
And the youth of school and college will be graduating soon.
There'll be bigwigs talking to them.
One old scholar that I know Told a class room full of youngsters:
'To a troubled world you go!
And for twenty tedious minutes he regretted and deplored That the future stretched before them was with difficulty stored!'

Since that day I've often wondered were I called upon to teach.
Just what counsel I should offer in my graduation speech.
I should not deplore the hardships which confronted them. Instead,
I'd congratulate the youngsters on the tasks which lie ahead.
'It's a troubled world,' I'd tell them.
'You will suffer many a blow—You'll encounter difficulty, but be glad that this is so!'

'I'd be very sorry for you were you doomed to easy years.
In a world completely finished where no need for strength appears.
I should not congratulate you were you going out today
All secure and all complacent with no barriers in your way.
These are times of stress and trial and there's work for you to do.
So set forth with hope and courage,
For the world has need of you.

"Ease and comfort call for little.
Pleasure cannot make you strong.
Pride is captured from achievement and from righting what is wrong.
Worth is only gained from struggle.
Courage comes from staying true.
Self-respect is wrought in hardship saying: 'This I dare to do!'
So be glad the years before you heavy seem to be with care.
'Tis a troubled world you're facing,
but your chance is waiting there."

an announcement said. There was no amplification, but military circles noted there had been numerous unofficial reports of marital complications, particularly in Australia, since the arrival of American Expeditionary forces.

HITLER'S DRIVE FOR CAUCASUS IS NEAR - M'KENZIE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst

Marshal Rommel's capture of Tobruk, and the precarious position of Russia's great naval base of Sevastopol under furious German assault —operations vitally linked with Hitler's attempt to break into the Caucasus and Middle East—bring us appreciably nearer the moment when the Nazi chief will unleash his full pack and race for a kill.

Our immediate concern is with Tobruk, for Sevastopol still stands.
The British now are back on Egyptian soil, preparing to defend their mighty base at Alexandria and block the road to the Suez canal. Obviously the position is serious.

The London press, surprised and angered at this defeat, demands whether there has been a blunder.
That's a legitimate question, but pending further information we are entitled to say no more than that Rommel again has demonstrated that he is a master strategist and is perhaps even greater as a tactician on the actual battle field.

Must Defend Europe

Still, while the British certainly must inquire into the circumstances of the defeat, the problem now is to defend Egypt and the canal, for they must be held at all costs. We don't know how much the British have salvaged from their shattered Eighth Army which was operating in Libya, though a considerable force withdrew across the border.
Apart from this, there are the Egyptian Army of 40,000 well trained men and 100,000 Allied Guardsmen.

So far as concerns land forces, it's doubtful whether Rommel could at this moment muster more men than the defense appears to have, although he is superior in tanks. However, it seems to me that the battle for Egypt is likely to turn on air power, in which case the British presumably will depend heavily on the United States for reinforcements. This doesn't mean that more troops won't also be needed, for they will, but the most pressing matter is air power.

This may be the time when Hitler will cut loose that vast air fleet which he has been grooming for so many months. One of the most significant news dispatches of the day is the report of a Greek submarine commander, who has just returned to Alexandria, that "the Nazis seem to have lots of aircraft on Crete and in Greece." From those positions the Germans could attack either the Middle East or Egypt.

Control of Air Important

The greatest danger is that Hitler may not only stage a violent air offensive against Egypt, but may also reinforce Rommel with air-borne troops and supplies. Therefore control of the air over Egypt becomes a matter of paramount importance, and it will be surprising if the British aren't urging the immediate dispatch of substantial air reinforcements from the United States.

The capture of Tobruk may permit Rommel to make a quick stab at Egypt. He will want to catch the British before air and other reinforcements can reach them, and while his army undoubtedly is weary from the terrific pace it has been keeping, and the even more terrific summer heat of the desert, he likely anticipated quick reinforcements from his master.

One of Rommel's greatest difficulties will be his ever-lengthening line of communication. Possession of Tobruk is a godsend to him in this respect, since this stronghold was a powerful barrier on the great military road skirting the north African coast. Naturally, this capture also protects Rommel's flank as he advances, and gives him a port through which to receive supplies, if the British Navy and Allied airforce can be stood off.

All that sounds pretty grim—and it is—but Allied mastery of the air

Husband Punches Wife;
Baby Dies In Fall

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP)—A young state highway department laborer was held on a manslaughter charge today pending a coroner's inquest into the death of his two-month-old daughter, killed during a "silly argument" between her parents.

Coroner W. D. McClelland ordered
Earl Styen, 20, held after the baby, Rosanna, died of a brain hemorrhage received in a fall from the arms of her 16-year-old mother.

Inspector Walter C. Monaghan said the youth told him:
"I just lost my head and punched my wife over a silly argument. She dropped the baby. I would sooner be shot than have the baby dead.
I loved that baby."

The couple said it was their first quarrel. The coroner absolved Mrs.
Styen of blame.

FRUSTRATED "NAZIS"

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., June 22
(AP)—Dr. Norman R. F. Maier, psychologist, says Germany is a nation of "frustrated people"—and that's why its powerful in war.
Frustration, he says, engenders a desire for aggression. Speaking at a national meeting of Chi Omega sorority, the University of Michigan professor said that, to produce the same result, American should frustrate its citizens by depriving them of personal liberties.

20TH VICTIM OF
"MAD BUTCHER"
FOUND IN RIVER

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP)—Another murder was linked by police today to the score of macabre slayings in Ohio and western Pennsylvania during the past decade which have been laid to the cunning and fiendish hand of the unknown "mad butcher of Kingsbury run."

The new victim attributed to the killer—one of the worst in the nation's history—was an unidentified man whose decapitated body was found in the Monongahela river here yesterday.

As in previous cases, the head had been severed cleanly with a knife and the body was stripped of clothing in an attempt to conceal identity. The body had been in the water about three days, a coroner's physician said.

Fingerprints were taken and police began the task of checking them.
The man bore two vaccination scars on the left arm and a surgical scar on the abdomen. Detectives, announcing that no one of his physical characteristics had been reported missing here, planned to communicate with authorities at Cleveland.

It was in the Kingsbury run section of Cleveland that the stealthy killer began his long series of baffling crimes and was accorded the grisly sobriquet "mad butcher." As the years passed and the bizarre murders continued, detectives have questioned many suspects but failed to apprehend the "butcher."

Four other slayings here were attributed to him in the past two years. Parts of a man's body were washed ashore along the Ohio river a year ago and in 1940 the dismembered bodies of three men were found in box cars at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yards.

Remains of other supposed victims, cut up and burned, have turned up in "murder swamp" at west Pittsburgh, near New Castle, along the railroad's Pittsburgh-Cleveland line.

U. S. PLANES MEET WAR TESTS

Washington, June 22 (AP)—The Army Air forces, from Commander Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold to the specialists in charge of the various divisions, finally have let down their hair for the benefit of the Aviation Writers' association.

Much of what these experts said was of necessity off the record. But from the lectures and discussions emerged the clean-cut picture of an air force which, operating on all the world's continents, today can boast that:

Combat Planes Stand Up

It has combat planes now which have stood up notably under enemy fire, and is nearing completion on new types which may revolutionize aerial warfare.

It has a supply service—the ferrying command—which soon will be spanning 10 times the number of miles covered by all the world's airlines at the start of the war, and which rapidly is bringing the AAP to a state of self-sufficiency independent of land or sea transport.

It has the largest air training program ever undertaken by any country, one of whose scope by 1943 will be of "astronomical" dimensions.

It is manned by youngsters who, in the words of Maj. Gen. Barton K. Yount, head of the flying training command, are "the cream of the land—if we can't train them, we couldn't train anybody."

While it was caught short by the Nazis in the use of gliders for troop and cargo carrying, it has under a full head of steam a program that is making up ground at a satisfying pace.

In its striking arm—bombardment—it is working on the principle that the United States has the world's best bombsight, and that this bombsight should be used for highly selective attacks on the enemy's most strategic centers, rather than in indiscriminate bombing.

It has, in the Boeing B-17 (fortress), the "best daylight bomber in the world today," in the words of Maj. Gen. O. P. Echols, chief of the material command, and in the Consolidated B-24 (Liberator) another four-motored job which, while slower, can carry more bombs a greater distance and which "we hope and expect will be almost as good, just as good or better" than the B-17, according to the gauge of comparison employed.

It is striving for the goal of being not only the world's largest and the world's best air force, but also the world's safest.

With two exceptions—the Lockheed P-38 and Republic P-47, both high-altitude fighters—the AAP's warplanes have been tested in battle.

RADIO EXECUTIVE DIES

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Samuel A. Pickering, 69, president of the WJAS Broadcasting company and one-time head of Pickering's, one of Pittsburgh's oldest furniture stores. He died at Miami Beach, Florida, Saturday.

The 60-year-old furniture store was closed in 1931 and the assets sold to May-Stern & company.

The plant is a division of the Ohn corporation.

Officials said the blast occurred in a gun cotton packing house. Other buildings on the company's property were undamaged.

The dead were Thomas Crayton, of Lemont; Regis Owens, of Dunbar, and Joseph Elkes, of Dunbar.

Two men were injured. They are Francis Owens, of Lemont, and Robert Conway, of Connellsville.

ELKS ELECT

Williamsport, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Election, Penn. B. Baker, of Lewis-town, president, the central district of Elks decided yesterday to expand their program through which 130 handicapped youngsters received training for special work last year. Named vice president was Iff Rochelle, of Sunbury; Secretary, Arthur A. Cox, Bloomsburg, and Treasurer, Lester J. Hoffmann, of Milton.

RAFTSMEN POSTPONE REUNION

Clarion, Pa., June 22 (AP)—H. L. Carson, president of the Northwest Pennsylvania Raftsmen's association, announced that its annual reunion has been postponed indefinitely in the interests of national defense.

The forthcoming apple crop of Nova Scotia will total about two million barrels, or double last year's, the Department of Commerce says.

State Drops 1,374 Relief Cases In Week

Harrisburg, June 22 (AP)—Pennsylvania's relief rolls dropped 1,374 cases during the week ended June 13, leaving on the list 43,844 cases containing 71,390 persons, the Department of Public Assistance reported.

Of this number only 10,000 cases contained a member classed as employable in some degree.

Net expenditures for direct assistance totaled $210,921, a decline of $11,648 from the preceding week's figure. Applications for help received by county offices totaled 1,401, an increase of 124.

MAPPING NEW ROUTE TO CHINA

Chungking, June 22 (AP)—Tolling over some of the most difficult terrain in the world, two groups of hardy surveyors are mapping a new supply line from India to China, which the Chinese hope may be in operation before the end of the year.

The new route, planned to replace the Burma road closed by the Japanese, will run from northeast India to Sikang, about 300 miles south-west of Chungking, Chinese sources said. The airline distance is 450 miles, but scores of miles will be added by the tortuous curves made necessary by the wild and lofty mountains.

The two groups of surveyors set out simultaneously from opposite ends of the line on June 15 and are expected to meet on the Chinese-Indian border in a month.

The border men must travel on horses and carry all their food and other supplies, as much of the region is unpopulated. Experts said about 100 horses were required to carry supplies for each unit of ten persons working on the route.

It is believed the new supply line may be ready for service by Christmas, and pack trains will resume the freight handling which was done by fast motor trucks on the Burma road.

The fact that the route is being pushed despite the presence of the Japanese in Burma is taken here as an indication that the British either expect no Japanese attack on India or are confident that it can be repelled if it comes.

LIBYAN TIMETABLE

(By The Associated Press)

The Axis armies in north Africa now have won back for the second time most of the territory which the British took from the Italians in the original desert campaign of 1940-1941.

Twice, British armies have advanced across the Libyan desert to Benghazi and twice they have been driven back to the Egyptian frontier by Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa Corps.

January 22, 1941—Tobruk captured by British; 25,000 Italians, including four generals, taken prisoners.

February 6, 1941—British capture Benghazi, 340 miles west of Egyptian frontier.

April 4, 1941—Axis armies, sweeping back across Libya, retake Benghazi.

April 13, 1941—Axis armies again reach Egyptian frontier.

December 6, 1941—British open new offensive in Libya.

December 10, 1941—Besieged garrison of Tobruk relieved.

December 25, 1941—British troops enter Benghazi for second time.

June 21, 1942—Tobruk captured by Rommel's forces, with estimated 25,000 British prisoners. Axis armies in Egyptian frontier region.

3 DIE IN BLAST AT UNIONTOWN

Uniontown, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Three men were killed today by an explosion which wrecked a unit of the Liberty powder plant at Mt. Braddock, six miles north of Uniontown.

The plant is a division of the Olin corporation.

The dead were Thomas Crayton, of Lemont; Regis Owens, of Dunbar, and Joseph Eikes, of Dunbar. Two men were injured. They are Francis Owens, of Lemont, and Robert Conway, of Connellsville.

ELKS ELECT

Williamsport, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Electing Penny B. Baker, of Lewisport, president, the central district of Elks decided yesterday to expand their program through which 150 handicapped youngsters received training for special work last year.

Named vice president was Hif Rochefello, of Sunbury; secretary, Arthur A. Cox, Bloomsburg, and treasurer, Lester J. Hoffman, of Milton.

RAFTSMEN POSTPONE REUNION

Clarion, Pa., June 22 (AP)—H. L. Carson, president of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Raftsmen's association, announced that its annual reunion has been postponed indefinitely in the interests of national defense.

The forthcoming apple crop of Nova Scotia will total about two million barrels, or double last year's, the Department of Commerce says.

U. S. PLANES MEET WAR TESTS

Washington, June 22 (AP)—The Army Air forces, from Commander Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold to the specialists in charge of the various divisions, finally have let down their hair for the benefit of the Aviation Writers' association.

Much of what these experts said was of necessity off the record. But from the lectures and discussions emerged the clean-cut picture of an air force which, operating on all the world's continents, today can boast that:

Combat Planes Stand Up

It has combat planes now which have stood up notably under enemy fire, and is nearing completion on new types which may revolutionize aerial warfare.

It has a supply service—the ferrying command—which soon will be spanning 10 times the number of miles covered by all the world's airlines at the start of the war, and which rapidly is bringing the AAP to a state of self-sufficiency independent of land or sea transport.

It has the largest air training program ever undertaken by any country, one whose scope by 1943 will be of "astronomical" dimensions.

It is manned by youngsters who, in the word of Maj Gen Barton K. Yount, head of the flying training command, are "the cream of the land—if we can't train them, we couldn't train anybody."

While it was caught short by the Nazis in the use of gliders for troop and cargo carrying, it has under a full head of steam a program that is making up ground at a satisfying pace.

In its striking arm—bombardment—it is working on the principle that the United States has the world's best bombsight, and that this bombsight should be used for highly selective attacks on the enemy's most strategic centers, rather than in indiscriminate bombing.

It has, in the Boeing B-17 (fortress), the "best daylight bomber in the world today," in the words of Maj. Gen. O. P. Echols, chief of the material command, and in the Consolidated B-24 (Liberator) another four-motored job which, while slower, can carry more bombs a greater distance and which "we hope and expect will be almost as good, just as good or better" than the B-17, according to the gauge of comparison employed.

It is striving for the goal of being not only the world's largest and the world's best air force, but also the world's safest.

With two exceptions—the Lockheed P-38 and Republic PA-47, both high-altitude fighters—the AAP's warplanes have been tested in battle.

State Drops 1,374 Relief Cases In Week

Harrisburg, June 22 (AP)—Pennsylvania's relief rolls dropped 1,374 cases during the week ended June 13, leaving on the list 43,844 cases containing 71,300 persons, the Department of Public Assistance reported.

Of this number only 10,000 cases contained a member classed as employable in some degree.

Net expenditures for direct assistance totaled $210,921, a decline from $211,648 from the preceding week's figure. Applications for help received by county offices totaled 1,401, an increase of 124.

MAPPING NEW ROUTE TO CHINA

Chungking, June 22 (AP)—Tolling over some of the most difficult terrain in the world, two groups of hardy surveyors are mapping a new supply line from India to China which the Chinese hope may be in operation before the end of the year.

The new route, planned to replace the Burma road closed by the Japanese, will run from northeast India to Sikiang, about 300 miles southwest of Chungking. Chinese sources said. The airline distance is 450 miles, but scores of miles will be added by the tortuous curves made necessary by the wild and lofty mountains.

The two groups of surveyors set out simultaneously from opposite ends of the line on June 15 and are expected to meet on the Chinese-Indian border in a month.

The surveyors must travel on horses and carry all their food and other supplies, as much of the region is unpopulated. Experts said about 100 horses were required to carry supplies for each unit of ten persons working on the route.

She believed the new supply line may be ready for service by Christmas, when a streak of bullock carts and pack ponies will resume the freight handling which was done by fast motor trucks on the Burma road.

The fact that the route is being pushed despite the presence of the Japanese in Burma is taken here as an indication that the British either expect no Japanese attack on India or are confident that it can be repelled if it comes.

Since the closing of the Burma road this spring, virtually no supplies have been reaching Chungking from outside except those brought in at great risk by American Army transport planes.

ACCUSE BARTENDER

Union City, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Burton R. Laub, Erie county district attorney, has filed charges of murder and manslaughter against a bartender accused of inadvertently shooting an onlooker during an argument at the Allied Trades Club summer home Saturday. Laub said a revolver held by Joseph Scott, 37, the bartender, discharged while he was trying to quiet a visitor from Corry. The bullet struck Walter S. Porter, 28, a truck driver, in the abdomen, causing his death a short time later.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Cox

YESTERDAY: Perry Clarke

came up to three friends having a cocktail on the way to the theater. Joyce Murdock disliked him at sight, and was curious, because Clarke had been married for a while to her husband's first wife Hester. Ward Allen disliked and even feared Clarke, and because of his effect on Ward, Delia too disapproved of the little man. Delia and Ward were talking, after the theater.

Chapter Four

Quarrel

"Has that man we met anything to do with it?" Delia asked.

"Perry Clarke?" His voice went cold, and there was a pause before he said: "Why—no."

"You knew him?"

"He reminded me of something unpleasant that happened to me once. It's hard to explain, but—"

"I understand," Delia interrupted. "I just thought that our love was the important thing—our happiness."

"Our love is the important thing," he cleared his throat and she could hear him draw a breath. "Happiness is something else. When I start out with you I've got to be sure that everything on the debit side is wiped out."

"Oh."

"Something happened in South America. I had a little trouble—"

"You told me," Delia said. "And I told you I didn't care."

She waited. The fear was still with her, gathering into a tight knot inside. But she was calm now and quite understanding the still small voice that kept hinting at something she dared not express. This woman Perry Clarke had mentioned—Hester Losado. Suppose that she—

She shook the thought aside. "So it's just your pride that's most important after all," she said finally, her voice cool and even.

"Now we're quarreling," Ward said. "And we shouldn't. Dee, not about this. Give me a little time—"

But she had opened the door and was on the sidewalk. He caught up with her at the apartment house entrance and she turned, one hand on the door-pull.

"I'm sorry, darling," she said. "Good night. I had a lovely evening—"

He looked at her, his blue eyes miserable and his mouth twisted. "Good night, Dee," he said.

That was all. He made no move towards her and she, who had so wanted to comfort him had given her the chance, turned quickly and went inside, eyes brimming as she hurried up the stairs.

Drink With Hester

Joyce Murdock was coming out her hair when she heard the door open in the living room. She had about finished at the dressing table and was tying a yellow ribbon about her head when her husband entered, trailing smoke from a freshly-lighted pipe.

"Hello," he said. "Have a good time?"

"Very nice," Joyce said. "How's the expectant father?"

"Still expecting the last I heard," Kent Murdock bent down to kiss her and grinned. "You look cute," he said.

"Do I?"

"With that ribbon in your hair."

Joyce remained at the table, idly neatening things that hardly needed such attention. "We waited for you," she said presently.

"I'm sorry. I got tied up."

She followed him with her eyes as he took off his coat and vest and began to empty things from his pockets to the top of the chest. He did all this slowly, rather absently, a frown biting at the bridge of his nose, a thoughtful, faraway look in his dark eyes. Recognizing the signs, she knew something was bothering him. She waited.

When he had finished with his pockets, he stood there a lean, moderately tall man with crisp dark hair and strong brows. His weight, well distributed along his flat-muscled body, gave an impression of poise and physical fitness, and there was a nice taper from shoulders to hips. His brows were bent now and the pipe, clamped firmly in his wide mouth, warped the solid angular jaw.

Presently he removed the pipe, shook out some ashes and came over to the shade-longue.

"How was the play?"

"Very good," Joyce said. "It's a shame you couldn't make it."

"Yes," Murdock said absently. "You must have been awfully busy."

"Yes—I was."

Joyce turned slightly, crossing her knees. She picked up an orange stick and idly fooled with her nails, keeping one eye on her husband's face. His gaze traveled all over the room—taking care to miss her—and he tapped the pipe stem against his teeth. Whatever it was that bothered him was coming to the surface, and she began to

POETS AND POETRY

Every dog, it is said, has his day. Meaning, I take it, that the dog gets full credit while he lives. Not so with poets—as a rule. Few great poets are acclaimed in their day. There are notable exceptions, but these only stand out to prove the rule that they have to die first before the critics and the poet's few admirers, are outnumbered by the populace.

Byron awoke one day "to find himself famous." But Whitman didn't, nor did Poe. The little handful of first editions of "The Rubaiyat," by Omar Khayyam, and the "Kasidah," by Burton went begging at a few cents each. And where did the early editions of Shakespeare hide? Only in a few places, for there were few to hide!

The most talented, and perhaps the greatest real genius, in the form of a poet, whose work dominated the poetic sky after the war, was Rupert Brooke—and yet how few of his books were printed and sold. Even today, though he is widely and highly acclaimed, he is read by comparatively few. But the genius of the man, and the beauty of his character, will grow luminous with the years.

Sir Walter Raleigh, the English critic, said: "A poet must wrestle with his own generation and convince them to see what it is hard for them to see, things that are hidden by being fixed for ever in the most conspicuous place." How clear is that truth of Whitman, whose works were actually banned in many places. Emerson, however, visioned his rising star.

I am glad to see at least one American poet receive his appreciation in life. I refer to Robert Frost, who, in my humble opinion, is the most American of them all. It is a joy to read his poems. There is a human, democratic quality about them, and they are clothed with such rare simplicity. It took 50 years for America to discover the lovely poems of Emily Dickinson!

Recently I have been reading many of the poems of Edward Thomas, whose death in the last war, like that of Brooke's was such a tragedy. And high among American poets I place the late Don Marquis, whose poems will yet be appreciated for their beauty and high quality.

I know next to nothing about the technical make-up of poetry, but to read the finest is like feeling the touch of a cool wind upon a hot summer day, or like listening to the velvet tones of a violin in the twilight. Read poetry to rest and soothe the mind.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Your Calling."

CLOSER CONTACT WITH MILITARY BEING SOUGHT

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Complete reorganization of the War Production Board, including a reshuffling of some top officials, probably will be announced this week, with indications that WPB's future operations will be tied ever more tightly to demands for military strategy.

Heading the personnel changes, it was learned today, will be the transfer of William H. Harrison, chief of WPB's production division to the War department, where he presumably will take over an important post in the procurement setup of the service of supply.

Elasticity Sought

Of major significance in plans for the new setup is a move to bring WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson and the Army and Navy chiefs of staff into closer contact, with a view toward increasing elasticity of war production to fit swiftly changing military requirements.

During recent conferences with Captain Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of supply, Nelson told reporters that the combined British and American production board intended to aim for standardization of military equipment, and close coordination of British and American war production with strategy and tactical developments on all United Nations fronts.

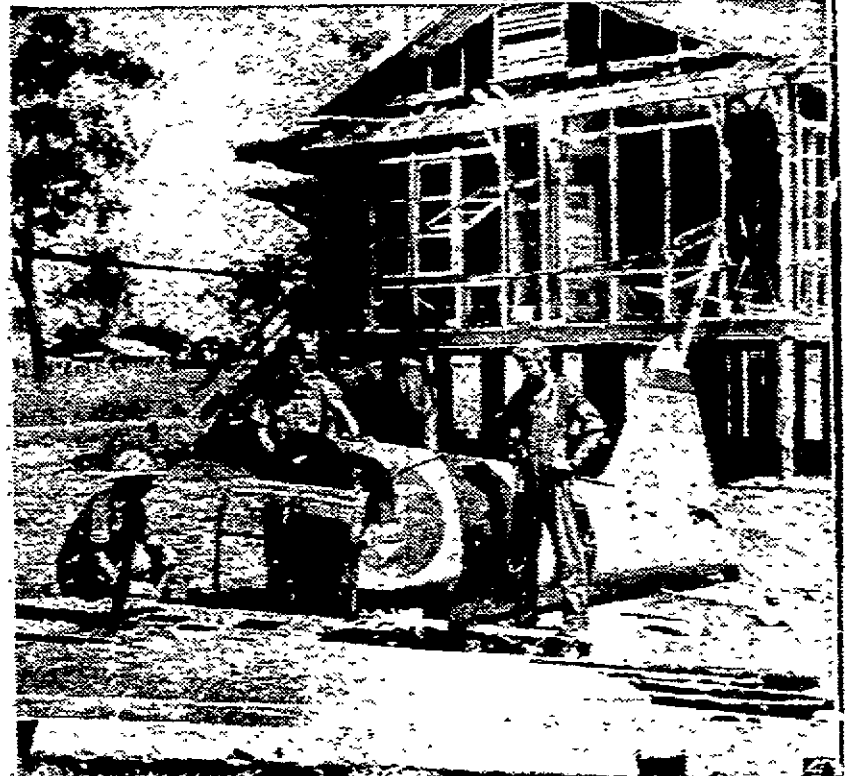

The WPB shake-up, it was understood, would effect this coordination so far as the United States is concerned.

Not Based on Senate Report

Officials made it clear that the changes would not be based on the recent report of the Senate defense investigating committee, criticizing dollar-a-year men in WPB. The new setup is to be based on recommendations of Dr. Luther Gulick, head of Columbia university's school of business administration, who has spent two months here studying links in the agency's operations.

Decrying congressional criticism of war production officials, Senator George (D-Ga.) said that "an overwhelming majority" of the dollar-a-year men and others "have done a marvelous job and have done it in a big way."

Husband Punches Wife; Baby Dies In Fall

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP)—A young state highway department laborer was held on a manslaughter charge today pending a coroner's inquest into the death of his two-month-old daughter, killed during a "silly argument" between her parents.

Coroner W. D. McClelland ordered Earl Styen, 20, held after the baby, Rosanna, died of a brain hemorrhage received in a fall from the arms of her 16-year-old mother.

Inspector Walter C. Monaghan said the youth told him:

"I just lost my head and punched my wife over a silly argument. She dropped the baby. I would sooner be shot than have the baby dead. I loved that baby."

The couple said it was their first quarrel. The coroner absolved Mrs. Styen of blame.

20TH VICTIM OF "MAD BUTCHER" FOUND IN RIVER

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP)—Another murder was linked by police today to the score of macabre slayings in Ohio and western Pennsylvania during the past decade which have been laid to the cunning and fiendish hand of the unknown "mad butcher of Kingsbury run."

The new victim attributed to the killer—one of the worst in the nation's history—was an unidentified man whose decapitated body was found in the Monongahela river here yesterday.

As in previous cases, the head had been severed cleanly with a knife and the body was stripped of clothing in an attempt to conceal identity. The body had been in the water about three days, a coroner's physician said.

Fingerprints were taken and police began the task of checking them. The man bore two vaccination scars on the left arm and a surgical scar on the abdomen. Detectives, announcing that no one of his physical characteristics had been reported missing here, planned to communicate with authorities at Cleveland.

It was in the Kingsbury run section of Cleveland that the stealthy killer began his long series of baffling crimes and was accorded the grisly sobriquet "mad butcher." As the years passed and the bizarre murders continued, detectives have questioned many suspects but failed to apprehend the "butcher."

Four other slayings here were attributed to him in the past two years. Parts of a man's body were washed ashore along the Ohio river a year ago and in 1940 the dismembered bodies of three men were found in box cars at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yards.

Remains of other supposed victims, cut up and burned, have turned up in "murder" swamp at west Pittsburgh, near New Castle, along the railroad's Pittsburgh-Cleveland line.

On the 12th inst., Mrs. Rebecca Dickson, wife of Samuel Dickson, of Mountpleasant township, aged 38 years.

Large Gooseberry: Mr. McClelland has a splendid article in the Gooseberry way. One was exhibited to us, which measures four inches by three.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Visit of Gen. Grant and Gov. Geary: Thursday was an interesting day in Gettysburg. At an early hour, flags were hung to the breeze, the streets were lighted up with strangers and the busy crowd teemed with expectation.

By the noon train, Gov. Geary, Deputy Secretary Gara, Private Secretary Dunnington, and several ladies arrived, and took lodging at the Franklin House. Gen. Grant was brought by special train from Hanover Junction, and arrived at 4 o'clock. He was met at the depot by Gov. Geary and the committee of arrangement of the Board of Commissioners of the National Cemetery. As the party reached the street they were loudly cheered by the large crowd. They repaired to the residence of David Wilds, Esq., where Gen. Grant and his Gen. Porter remained during their stay. So great was the anxiety of the crowd that they immediately called out Gen. Grant and Gov. Geary; the latter responded in some happy remarks which were well received.

After dining, the party visited the field west of the town, and also rode out to Cemetery Hill the next morning completing the examination of the entire field. In the evening an impromptu entertainment was given them at the Franklin House by the commissioners of the cemetery; and Friday after Gen. Grant

Said Old Crankmire as we chatted: "Here's the merry month of June."

And the youth of school and college will be graduating soon. There'll be bigwigs talking to them. One old scholar that I know.

Told a class room full of youngsters: "To a troubled world you go!" And for twenty tedious minutes he regretted and deplored.

That the future stretched before them "m was with difficulty stored!"

Since that day I've often wondered were I called upon to teach. Just what counsel I should offer in my graduation speech.

I should not deplore the hardships which confronted them. Instead, I'd congratulate the youngsters on the tasks which lie ahead.

"It's a troubled world," I'd tell them. "You will suffer many a blow— You'll encounter difficulty, but be glad that this is so!"

"I'd be very sorry for you were you doomed to easy years. In a world completely finished where no need for strength appears. I should not congratulate you were you going out today All secure and all complacent with no barriers in your way. These are times of stress and trial and there's work for you to do. So set forth with hope and courage for the world has need of you."

"Ease and comfort call for little. Pleasure cannot make you strong. Pride is captured from achievement, and from righting what is wrong. Worth is only gained from struggle. Courage comes from staying true. Self-respect is wrought in hardship saying: 'This I dare to do.' So be glad the years before you heavy seem to be with care. 'Tis a troubled world you're facing, but your chance is waiting there."

an announcement said. There was no amplification, but military circles noted there had been numerous unofficial reports of marital complications, particularly in Australia, since the arrival of American Expeditionary forces.

HITLER'S DRIVE FOR CAUCASUS IS NEAR - M'KENZIE

Wide World War Analyst

Marshal Rommel's capture of Tobruk, and the precarious position of Russia's great naval base of Sevastopol under furious German assault—operations vitally linked with Hitler's attempt to break into the Caucasus and Middle East—bring us appreciably nearer the moment when the Nazi chief will unleash his full pack and race for a kill.

Our immediate concern is with Tobruk, for Sevastopol still stands. The British now are back on Egyptian soil, preparing to defend their mighty base at Alexandria and block the road to the Suez canal. Obviously the position is serious.

The London press, surprised and angered at this defeat, demands whether there has been a blunder. That's a legitimate question, but pending further information we are entitled to say no more than that Rommel again has demonstrated that he is a master strategist and is perhaps even greater as a tactician on the actual battle field.

Must Defend Europe

Still, while the British certainly must inquire into the circumstances of the defeat, the problem now is to defend Egypt and the canal. For they must be held at all costs. We don't know how much the British have salvaged from their shattered Eighth Army which was operating in Libya, though a considerable force withdrew across the border. Apart from this, there are the Egyptian Army of 40,000 well trained men and 100,000 Allied Guardsmen.

So far as concerns land forces, it's doubtful whether Rommel could at this moment muster more men than the defense appears to have. However, it seems to me that the battle for Egypt is likely to turn on air power, in which case the British presumably will depend heavily on the United States for reinforcements. This doesn't mean that more troops won't also be needed, for they will, but the most pressing matter is air power.

This may be the time when Hitler will cut loose that vast air fleet which he has been grooming for so many months. One of the most significant news dispatches of the day is the report of a Greek submarine commander, who has just returned to Alexandria, that "the Nazis seem to have lots of aircraft on Crete and in Greece." From those positions the Germans could attack either the Middle East or Egypt.

Control of Air Important

The greatest danger is that Hitler may not only stage a violent air offensive against Egypt, but may also reinforce Rommel with air-borne troops and supplies. Therefore control of the air over Egypt becomes a matter of paramount importance, and it will be surprising if the British aren't urging the immediate dispatch of substantial air reinforcements from the United States.

The capture of Tobruk may permit Rommel to make a quick stab at Egypt. He will want to catch the British before air and other reinforcements can reach them, and while his army undoubtedly is weary from the terrific pace it has been keeping, and the even more terrific summer heat of the desert, he likely anticipated quick reinforcements from his master.

One of Rommel's greatest difficulties will be his ever-lengthening line of communication. Possession of Tobruk is a godsend to him in this respect, since this stronghold is a powerful barrier on the great military road skirting the north African coast. Naturally, this capture also protects Rommel's flank as he advances, and gives him a port through which to receive supplies, if the British Navy and Allied airforce can be stood off.

All that sounds pretty grim—and it is—but Allied mastery of the air

MOTORISTS, OUT OF GAS, STALLED ALONG SEABOARD

[By The Associated Press]

Dry gasoline pumps stranded thousands of motorists along the Atlantic seaboard yesterday as summer's first week-end brought an increase in travel and exhausting demands on filling stations.

As harried dealers hung out "no gas" signs, drivers with empty tanks were forced to leave their cars parked at the roadside or have them towed to parking lots and garages.

Philadelphia was hardest hit with all of its 3,500 stations closed by mid-afternoon Sunday. Many motorists including tourists, were stranded and some war workers were unable to get to their plants.

A Reed Engle, president of the Associated Gasoline Dealers of Philadelphia, said the shortage was caused by doubling the value of units on ration cards to six gallons without increasing the supply to stations. "We're (the operators) taking plenty of abuse," he said.

Two tank trucks appeared in a street in early afternoon and scores of cars promptly fell in line behind them. But the trucks delivered to a station where nearly 100 motorists already were waiting to make purchases.

The unit value on the ration cards was doubled by the government in order to take care of a two-week extension of the rationing period, originally scheduled to end July 1. The new rationing period will begin July 15.

In Washington only 11 of 1,000 stations remained open and the American Automobile Association was flooded with towing calls from gasless motorists.

Not all drivers took their plight in good grace. Dealers in some sections of New York's Westchester county had to call police to quiet disappointed motorists. In Union City, New Jersey, police dispersed drivers left parked in line when supplies gave out.

Some of the more patient parked their cars in front of stations with orders to fill tanks when supplies were delivered. Most of the dealers expected to receive their allotments for the third 10 days of the month today or Tuesday.

Midtown New York's filling stations were reported "bone dry," but the city's millions took subways and buses to cooler spots.

Meanwhile, 11 New England congressmen recommended to Price Administrator Leon Henderson that vacationists be given supplemental gasoline rationing books calling for enough fuel to take them to and from resorts.

over Egypt would entirely change the set-up.

FRUSTRATED "NAZIS"

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Dr. Norman R. F. Maier, psychologist, says Germany is a nation of "frustrated people"—and that's why its powerful in war. Frustration, he says, engenders a desire for aggression. Speaking at a national meeting of Chi Omega sorority, the University of Michigan professor said that, to produce the same result, American should frustrate its citizens by depriving them of personal liberties.

Most Polish schools have been requisitioned as military barracks by the Nazis.

submarines, transports, tankers and seaplane tenders.

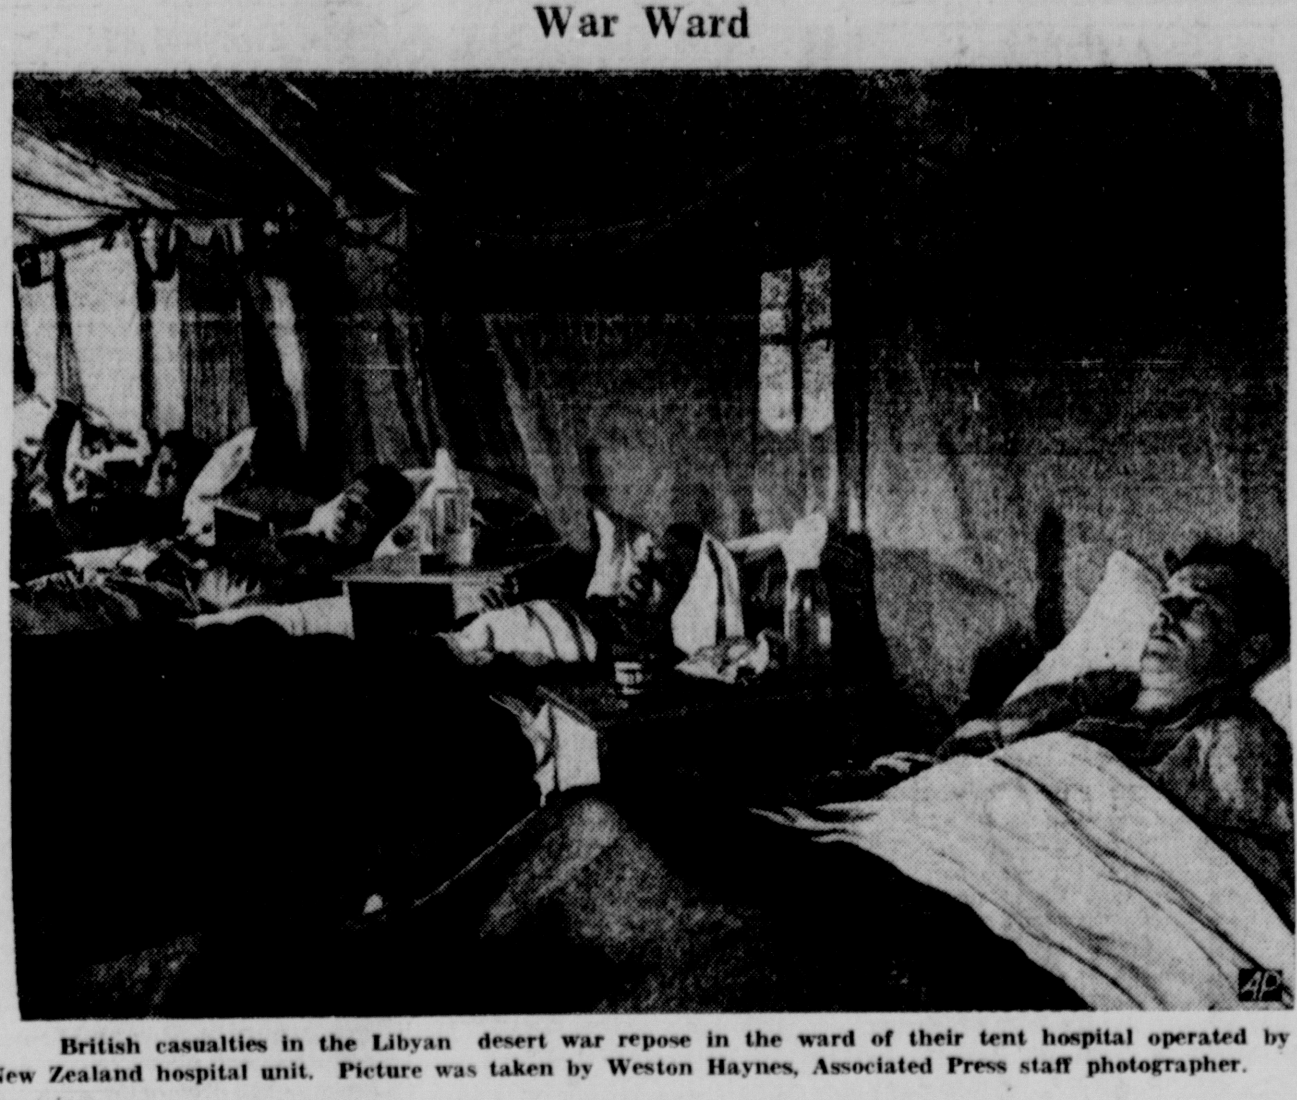

So far as the Japanese were concerned, they had planned only an offensive.

But by the night of June 4, American fleet and land-based Army aircraft, after launching their most amazing counter-attack, turned what had started out as a defensive action into a pell-mell race to destroy the crippled and scattered ships of the enemy.

Within three days the harried Japanese armada, desperately trying to beat its way back home, was scattered over a large area of the Pacific.

PLANE MAKERS GET DATA FAST FROM WAR FRONT

Washington, June 22 (AP)—The lesson a United States bomber pilot learns in combat over Australia's island fringe today is in the hands of Washington aircraft experts tomorrow, is being relayed to the aircraft manufacturers 24 hours later, and is being adapted to new machines by the following week.

That essential feature of the plane production picture was expounded for the members of the Aviation Writers association, concluding their three-day annual meeting, when they visited the Martin bomber plant at Middle River, Maryland, yesterday. Its exponent was Joseph Hartson, executive vice-president of the company.

Hartson emphasized that there can be nothing static about the wartime turn-out of military planes, that it is an extremely fluid process in which operational experiences must be and are incorporated as promptly as possible into the planes on the assembly line.

"That is why it is nonsense to become involved in arguments over mass production of automobiles as compared to what I prefer to call quantity production of planes, he declared.

"Automobile manufacturers could pick out one model and go into production on that for a year. There was no need to make any changes in the meantime, but whatever improvements had been devised could be put into the next year's model all in good time.

"In any case, what does the term 'mass production' mean? The automobile industry used to turn out 4,500,000 cars a year.

That, compared to our present task of turning out 185,000 planes in two years, sounds like a staggering figure. But then I can turn around and show you a single factory capable of turning out in one day as many tin cans as the automobiles produced in an entire year, simply because it is an even more standardized process.

"We can't afford to be too standardized. If the aircraft manufacturers discover that a certain type of plane needs a specific improvement to operate effectively in north Africa, for instance, they have to go to work on installing that improvement immediately. They can't afford to allow the enemy any advantage even for one hour more than necessary."

NON-RESIDENTS OF HAWAII ARE URGED TO LEAVE

Honolulu, June 22 (AP)—Warning that the United States victory over the Japanese in the battle of Midway "has given many people a false sense of security," Lieut. General Delos C. Emmons today urged all non-residents to leave Hawaiian islands as soon as possible.

Although American air and naval forces early this month routed the largest fleet Japan ever sent across the International Dateline in what may have been an attempted invasion of the United States west coast, it is dangerous to assume the enemy will not return, said General Emmons, commander of the Hawaiian department, U. S. Army.

"The outcome of the battle of Midway has given many people a false sense of security," Emmons said in a statement. "Nothing can be more dangerous than such an attitude. To assume the enemy will not return in force and utilize every weapon at his disposal is the most dangerous kind of wishful thinking.

"It is important to our war effort that all civilians, especially all non-resident women, children and dependent persons who are not engaged in essential war work, make plans for evacuation to the mainland and depart as soon as possible.

"I urge all non-residents who are not needed in war work to place their affairs in shape and depart for the mainland as soon as space becomes available. Practically all Army and Navy dependents have been evacuated."

Unidentified Craft Attack Oregon Coast

toward the sea, and heard from 12 to 16 shots. The shells seemed to be landing somewhere with a great thud, but I couldn't tell what the objective was."

Lucas and others also told of seeing flashes from a gun or guns, which the editor described as "bright orange and fan-shaped" and much like lightning playing on the horizon.

No shells landed in Astoria, sea-side or any other community so far as could be determined from residents in the 30-mile area.

The Army's announcement that they fell "north of seaside" suggested they might have plowed uselessly into some part of the 16 miles of sandy wastelands between the Ocean City and the Columbia river.

This theory was held by at least one resident of the coast. "The Japs picked a swell place for harmless target practice," he remarked.

Hunt Submarine

Royal Canadian and American Naval units were reported to have launched an immediate hunt for the submarine, presumably Japanese, which attacked Estevan Point.

Only 33 persons, most of them employees of the radio station or a nearby light house, live at lonely Estevan point, a rocky promontory which juts six miles out into the Pacific ocean.

Coastal residents of Washington and Oregon were ordered to dim lights which could be seen from the sea. The dim-out was effective in the Strait of Juan de Fuca to Chila-

WAR BRIEFS

London, June 22 (AP)—Nazi air raiders, apparently replying to two successive RAF night assaults on Emden and other targets in north-west Germany, unloaded high explosives on Southampton last night in a sharp attack which caused some damage and casualties. The raid was described as the heaviest on Britain in three weeks, but informed quarters said the number of planes which participated was not large in comparison with the formations the RAF has been hurling against Germany.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts) June 22 (AP)—Three British "motor torpedo gunboats" were sunk in an engagement with German minesweepers off the Dutch coast last night and several other British vessels were badly damaged, the Germans said today in a communiqué. It was said. A German motor torpedo boat flotilla attacked a formation of small British coastal craft and freighters fleeing from Tobruk yesterday and completely destroyed it, the high command added.

Hit Them Where It Hurts BUY BONDS!

Make no mistake—this is a life or death struggle. Men are dying in your defense. Dying that America may be safe!

Give our fighting men the guns, the planes, the tanks they need! Bonds buy bombs. Every dime, every dollar you put into War Bonds and Stamps is a blow at the enemy. Hit them where it hurts—buy bonds! Bonds cost as little as $18.75 up—stamps as little as 10 cents up.

iam Bay, Washington, and in the Columbia river to Cathlamet, Washington. British Columbia, however, took no dimout action.

F.D.R.-Churchill Talks Continue

The leaders, Early said, are holding numerous talks with other parties, but these are being kept "off the record."

The Presidential secretary was informed that London newspapers were splurging Washington reports that Lieutenant General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of Canadian overseas forces, was being heavily favored to command United Nations forces that might be employed in opening any second front. So far as he was concerned, Early said these reports were highly speculative.

"As I told you when Mr. Churchill arrived," he added, "yours is a free press. I anticipated plenty of speculation, and apparently we are getting it."

LINDBERGH LEASES ESTATE

Detroit, June 22 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh has leased an estate in Bloomfield Hills, fashionable suburb, with plans to move there with his family this week. It was learned today from a rental agency. The estate is Belwood, owned by Mrs. William J. Belknap. It has an 11-room English style house and is in a secluded area, bounded by groves of trees. The grounds cover approximately five acres. Lindbergh is now a consultant on aeronautics with the Ford Motor company, a position he assumed after the United States entered the war.
